Russia Ready To Join Anglo-French Alliance To Halt Aggression

ANNOUNCEMENT IS EXPECTED SHORTLY

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 21.—A mighty Anglo-French Soviet Russian triple entente designed to stem European aggression approached realization today as the Soviet government forwarded a series of proposals to London.

The suggestions from Moscow, dealing with technical and geographic considerations, were in response to an Anglo-French offer to guarantee Russia's independence in exchange for full Soviet cooperation with the anti-aggression or "Stop Hitler" bloc.

The Soviet government sent its recommendations to both the British and French governments.

Soviet To Pledge Support

In its communication, the Soviets indicated their willingness to pledge the support of all its armed forces and economic resources to resist any further aggression in Europe by the Rome-Berlin axis.

Authorities in London described the Soviet proposals as "constructive" and said Russia was prepared to join the British and French without limits or reservations.

The Soviet response is expected to be considered almost immediately by the British cabinet.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 21. — Newspapermen searched the German line Deutschland today — with express permission of ship's officers—but found nary a trace of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, World War slacker.

Unconfirmed rumors that Bergdoll, scheduled to arrive in the United States to make his peace with army authorities who are expected to hold prison doors invitingly open for him, had taken passage aboard the ship proved false.

"Bergdoll is not aboard," said a ship's officer. "You can search the ship if you wish."

The reporters did so, ignoring the staterooms and concentrating on the hold where they poked into every nook and cranny. There was no Bergdoll and it was assumed that he was still in Germany.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh may end his European exile and take up permanent residence again in his native land, it was learned today.

Close friends of the Flying Colonel represented him as being eager to remain in the United States and to contribute his aviation knowledge and technical experience to the American government.

They said that when Lindbergh sought refuge with his family in England four years ago he doubted that he might ever return for more than an occasional brief visit, but that time has begun to heal the tragedy which drove him into exile.

PARIS, April 21.—Nine little European nations felt the full force of Nazi Germany's "dynamite diplomacy" today as Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler turned to them to provide his answer to President Roosevelt's appeal for a quarter century of guaranteed peace.

Authoritative diplomatic sources disclosed that four Baltic, one Scandinavian and four Balkan countries have already been queried by the Fuehrer in the knowledge he will receive replies enabling him, in his speech to the Reichstag a week from today, to repudiate Roosevelt's universally if sometimes secretly welcomed intervention in Europe.

Hitler, in effect, is asking the small nations of Europe whether they are frightened of him. He

Waitress Kills Young Bandit In Attempted Holdup

Connellsville Girl Grabs Revolver And Starts Firing At Bandits In Churchyard

TWO OF BANDITS MAKE GETAWAY

(International News Service)

CONNELLSVILLE Pa., April 21.—A young bandit was wounded fatally early today by a beer-garden waitress when he and two armed companions attempted to holdup an establishment on Connellsville's Westside.

James Krossa, 25, of Jamison Works, near Uniontown, died in Connellsville State hospital early morning from a bullet wound under the right eye inflicted, according to Chief of Police Andrew W. Thomas, by Miss Violet Rowe, 24, a waitress in the place.

The two companions, unidentified, escaped.

Wait Till Closing

Krossa and his associates had been in the establishment most of the evening and about 1:30, when all of the other customers had gone, he and one friend produced revolvers and herded Miss Rowe, Isaac Eastholm, 57, the bartender, and Mrs. Mary Cordaro, 45, wife of the proprietor, into a back room.

Unobserved, Miss Rowe pulled a .32 calibre revolver from a shelf and hid it under her apron. The back room led into an open churchyard, behind which was the home of the proprietor. Miss Rowe fired three shots from the revolver to attract his attention.

Startled, the two bandits fled from a side door. In the darkness, Miss Rowe thought one of the men was chasing Eastholm and with a scream of "run, Ike, run," she fired from a distance of about 20 feet and felled Krossa. The other two men escaped.

Pennsylvania Guard Units Are Assigned To New Cavalry Division

HARRISBURG, April 21.—Pennsylvania National Guard units were assigned by Adjutant General Edward Martin today to the new 22nd Cavalry Division authorized by the war department.

The division, comprising units from Pennsylvania, Ohio and Kentucky, will assemble at the Indiantown Military Reservation June 17 for training maneuvers, commanded probably by Brigadier General E. J. Stackpole.

No information had been received late this morning by officers of Troop K., 103rd Cavalry, P.N.G., relative to the changes made in the National Guard of Pennsylvania, and this was taken to mean that re-designation of the local troop is unlikely.

Six troops of the 103rd regiment, Philadelphia, were given new designations for the cavalry division as a result of orders issued today. The changes:

Court Orders Deen To Appear

Resident Secretary Of Democratic State Committee Must Produce Records

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 21.—The state superior court ruled today that Cal K. Deen, resident secretary of the Democratic state committee, and Frank Taylor, an employe of the party, must appear before the Dauphin county graft investigation grand jury with their records.

The order was made when the court quashed Deen's appeal against the grand jury and District Attorney Carl B. Shelley of Harrisburg this morning. It was one of 20-odd decisions handed down.

Judge J. E. B. Cunningham wrote the opinion.

The appeal was brought by Deen and Taylor from a subpoena duces tecum ordering their appearance before the grand jury investigating charges of alleged graft and corruption in the administration of former Gov. George H. Earle. They were instructed to bring certain records of the Democratic party which were in their possession.

Deen and Taylor went before the jury but refused to produce the exhibits. As a result, they faced specially presiding Judge Paul N. Schaeffer, of Berks county, on a charge of contempt.

At the hearing, their counsel attempted to have the subpoenaes quashed but the motion was reejcted. From this, they appealed to the superior court.

U. S. May Act In Deadlocked Coal Conference

President Roosevelt Indicates That Federal Government May Intervene

PARLEY CONTINUES BUT NO AGREEMENT

Coal Shortage In Eastern U. S. Is Reported As Becoming Acute

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 21. President Roosevelt indicated today that the federal government may intervene in the deadlocked soft coal negotiations in New York, which have kept 320,000 union miners idle and left the nation faced with a possible coal shortage.

The president said at his press conference that he understood there was a statute empowering the government to call a meeting in an effort to bring about a settlement.

Would Be Next Step

That, he added, would be the next step in the move to arbitrate the differences between the Appalachian soft coal operators and the United Mine Workers of America.

The president has been kept closely advised of the attempt by department of labor mediators to bring the soft coal operators and miners together on a renewal of their wage-hour contract which expired March 31.

Reports of an approaching desperate shortage of soft coal, which would work a particular hardship on cities and industry, have come to the chief executive's attention.

Compensation Checks For Miners

State Will Pay In Mine Tieup

Over 65,000 Coal Miners To Be Added To Unemployment Compensation

THIRTY THOUSAND ALREADY ON ROLLS

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 21.—First unemployment compensation checks for over 65,000 unemployed bituminous coal miners will go out May 8, the unemployment compensation division of the department of labor and industry announced today.

A department spokesman estimated that approximately 10,000 miners would receive compensation checks beginning the week of May 8, while an additional 25,000 would begin receiving checks the week of May 15. Thirty thousand more miners, it was estimated, would not be eligible for compensation until the week of May 22.

30,000 Already Get Checks

It was revealed that an estimated 30,000 miners are already receiving benefits by virtue of previously filed claims. Those who begin drawing compensation checks May 8 have filed their original claims for unemployment relief checks.

Labor and Industry Secretary Lewis G. Hines said that checks would be issued promptly to the miners entitled to compensation at the end of the three weeks' compulsory waiting period from the date of filing claims. Temporary employers have been hired in the department for the purpose of registering unemployed miners and facilitating payments.

TRIPLE ENTENTE TO "STOP HITLER" BEING FORMED

sion of Russia in the anti-aggression bloc being formed by Britain and France would enhance the strategic position of the Anglo-French facing Germany and Italy, since it would mean that the Reich would face the prospect of having to fight on both her eastern and western frontier. Soviet Russia is said to possess the largest army in the world, and possibly the largest air force.)

Triple Entente Soon

As matters now stand, British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain may be able to announce a triple entente before Chancellor Hitler, on April 28, makes his scheduled Reichstag address in reply to President Roosevelt's peace message, which was derided as "unjust and unfair" by Premier Mussolini in Rome yesterday.

(The London Daily Express, in a dispatch from Warsaw, said the Soviet navy's Baltic fleet, including 70 submarines, has begun eight-day maneuvers in the gulf of Finland, within striking distance of Germany's Memel and East Prussia.)

Moscow's suggestions were handed to the British ambassador to Russia, Sir William Seeds, for transmission to London and culminated a long period of active negotiations.

Hints from Berlin that Hitler's Reichstag speech will not be peaceful if the negotiations with Moscow are pursued are being ignored by the British government, it was stated.

Authorities in London are determined to bring Russia into the agreement against aggression—a feat which would bring about an eventual grand alliance embracing Britain, France, Russia, Turkey, Poland, Greece and Rumania.

Such an alliance would resemble, at least in its extent and power, the alliance that was formed to bring about the downfall of Napoleon when he set out to conquer the world.

Set-Back In Other Parleys

The campaign of the Anglo-French entente to prevent further aggression by Germany or Italy received a set-back, however, with revelation that Turkey has insisted upon an important reservation in her agreements with Great Britain and France.

Under this reservation Turkey will become involved reciprocally in a European conflict on the side of Britain and France only in the event of a war directly affecting the Balkans or the eastern Mediterranean.

Several days ago it was revealed that Britain and Turkey had concluded an agreement providing for military reciprocity. Turkey also agreed to keep the Dardanelles open to British and French warships.

The Turkish reservations, however, would bar that nation from taking mandatory military action in the event, for example, of a German move against Poland.

A second stumbling bloc was noted in the person of Grigore Gafencu, Rumanian foreign minister, who has been visiting Berlin and engaging in long, earnest talks with German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

Although the Anglo-French military guarantees cover Rumania, British authorities expressed themselves as frankly worried over the attitude Gafencu will adopt when he arrives in London Sunday for further consultations. He is scheduled to talk over all the implications arising from the British pledge to Rumania.

U. S. MAY ACT IN DEADLOCKED COAL CONFERENCE

contract governing wage-and-hour conditions in the vast Appalachian coal area.

As the deadlocked conferees met, union leaders throughout the middlewest were serving notice on operators outside the Appalachian field that unless the current meetings produce an agreement by midnight, May 4, dawn of the next day will find every unionized mine in the country deserted of all but maintenance crews with soft coal production at an absolute halt.

Glimmer Of Hope

Just before this morning's meeting got under way there was a short-lived glimmer of hope that a concrete peace proposal was in the offing.

This hope arose from an aside to reporters by International Vice President Philip Murray of the United Mine Workers of America that he understood the mine operators were prepared to offer a "new proposition" to the unionists. However, when the coal operators filed into the meeting room, they brushed this report aside as baseball in fact, asserting the situation was unchanged from its deadlocked status.

The operators' attitude was echoed inferentially by John L. Lewis, international president of the U. M. W. A., when he arrived at the meeting room an hour after the conference had convened.

Reporters reminded him of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins' optimistic prediction of a quick end of the current impasse, then asked:

"You're participating in the conferences, Mr. Lewis—do you see any ray of sunshine in the situation?"

Lewis pondered the question with mock gravity before replying. Then, turning on his heel and striding into the conference room, he tossed this remark over his shoulder:

"Sunshine? Well, I'm going in there to see if I can find any."

Recess At Noon

New York, April 21.—With no immediate prospect of agreement, bituminous coal operators and mine union leaders today battled through another fruitless session of their protracted conferences to write a new labor contract for the Appalachian area.

At the luncheon recess, the conferees were told by reporters that President Roosevelt had indicated at his press conference this morning that the federal government may intervene in the deadlock negotiations.

W. L. Robison, chairman of the joint sub-committee conference, declined comment on this disclosure and would only say:

"We are still negotiating."

Asked whether any improvement was noted in the negotiations, Robison added:

"Well, I'd say that there is no improvement as compared to two days ago."

John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers of America and CIO chief, listened with interest to the report that the president may intervene, but he, too, had no comment.

TRI-HI MEETING

HITLER PREPARES REPLY TO APPEAL

plans, in time, to interrogate all the little countries that Roosevelt asked him to promise he would not attack. That any of these nations could conceivably reply affirmatively and thus offend their powerful Germanic neighbor seems out of the question.

Countries Queried

Up until noon today, Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Sweden, Greece, Turkey, Rumania and Yugoslavia had been asked by Hitler:

1—Do you feel yourself menaced by Germany?

2—Did you solicit President Roosevelt's message?

The manner of this interrogation leaves small chance for anything but negative replies, which it is understood Hitler will compile in an attempt to use his Reichstag speech as proof not only of Germany's innocence but of Mr. Roosevelt's guilt as a "war-monger".

It was pointed out in diplomatic circles that Hitler's present method displays a new orientation with regard to the United States. Instead of replying in the heat of his first fury, he has adopted a scheme to play upon American prejudices.

Public Opinion Move

Few countries in Europe or their public are expected to be much impressed by the results of his current questionnaire. It is assumed, therefore, that Hitler hopes chiefly to influence public opinion in America which he regards as "naive" so far as European diplomacy is concerned.

Most significant, perhaps, is Hitler's action in asking the small countries of Europe whether they solicited Mr. Roosevelt's intervention. He knows perfectly well they did not do so, but their own disclaimers of any such action will give him valuable ammunition with which to attack the president and accuse him again of unwarranted interference in European affairs.

COL. LINDBERGH MAY END EUROPEAN EXILE

unless its air fighting strength is brought up to parity with Germany.

This belief was heightened by the sudden departure of his wife, Anne Morrow Lindbergh, and their two children, Jon, seven, and Land, two, from France on the Liner Champlain. They will join Lindbergh in this country. Friends said, too, that the children's grandmother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow missed them sorely and often pleaded for their return. It will be the first time that two-year-old Land, who was born in London, has seen his parents' homeland.

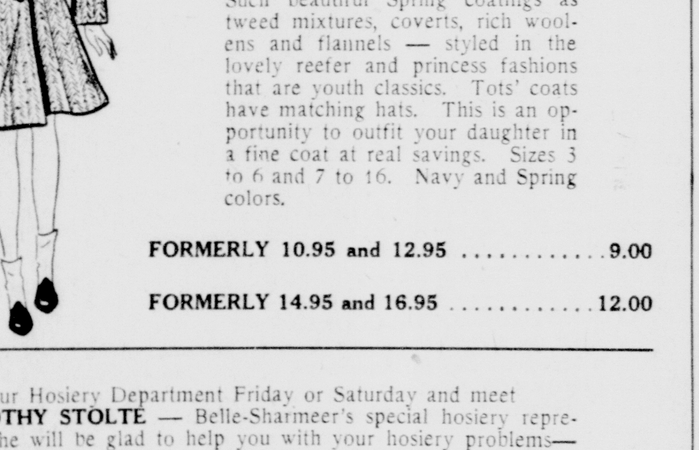
PERK UP SPRING APPETITES WITH THIS TASTY NEW RHUBARB AND PINEAPPLE PIE SAYS AUNT JENNY



Spry mixes so fast your pastry's ready in no time

"YOU see, folks, Spry's made a special way," says Aunt Jenny. "It's creamed an' creamed — yes, triple-creamed! That's why it cuts into the flour so easy, gives such tender, flaky crust. You get lighter cakes the Spry way, too—crisper, tastier fried foods that are so digestible a child can eat 'em. Change to Spry today!"

IN 1-LB. AND 3-LB. CANS. ALSO IN THE BIG 6-LB. FAMILY SIZE

Spry TRIPLE-CREAMED!

RHUBARB AND PINEAPPLE PIE

Extra-delicious made the Spry way

4 cups rhubarb, sliced
1 cup canned crushed pineapple
1¼ cups sugar
1 tablespoon quick-cooking tapioca
1 recipe Spry Pie Crust

Combine rhubarb, pineapple, sugar and tapioca.

Roll ⅓ of dough and line a 9-inch pie plate. Fill pie shell with rhubarb and pineapple mixture and moisten edge of pie with water.

Roll remaining dough for top crust and cut a few decorative slits. Fit crust over fruit and seal edge of pie. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 30 to 40 minutes. See if you ever tasted such flaky, tender pastry as you can make this easy Spry way.

SPRY PIE CRUST

2⅓ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup Spry
5 tablespoons water (about)

Sift flour with salt. Add ⅓ of Spry and cut in until mixture is as fine as meal. (So much easier than with hard, stiff ice-box shortenings.) Add remaining Spry and continue cutting until particles are size of navy bean. (This makes your pastry flaky.)

Sprinkle water gradually over mixture, working lightly into a dough with a fork.

(All measurements in these recipes are level)

(Clip and save this Spry recipe)

NOW COME HOTELS OF THE AIR

WILDEST imagination of a Jules Verne never conceived of a 74-passenger heavier-than-air plane engaged in regular periodic service between this country and Europe. And yet in the near future such service will be an established fact. The completion of its first round trip by the palatial Yankee Clipper is practical assurance of that. This sort of flying will, of course, be an expensive business, but for those to whom either novelty or haste to reach a destination aboard is impelling, it will prove no barrier.

Authorization to the Pan-American Line to make regular flights is expected soon to be made by the Civil Aeronautics Authority, and the question of mail subsidy is one still to be adjusted. Without government aid these big 42-ton planes admittedly could not be made self-supporting, at least in the near future. Travel in these luxurious "hotels with wings" will have a strong appeal to many with a horror of or addiction to mal de mer. For them escape from the buffeting of waves will be a treasured boon.

A remarkable thing about the 11,000-mile round trip, with many stops, just concluded by the huge plane is that fuel estimate proved to be almost exact, and scheduled flights from one port to another did not vary by more than a few minutes from the captain's calculations. As a people Americans are becoming more and more air-minded, and the establishment of regular service to Europe undoubtedly will make this increasingly so. Flights between the new world and the old will lack some of the pleasant intimacy of life on shipboard that makes an ocean voyage a prolonged party for some. There is, of course, no thought that one form of transportation will ever supersede the other, for the cargo-carrying possibilities of airplanes is fairly rigidly limited.

THIS BEWHEELED AGE

Ordering his squad to ride bicycles around the campus, Carl Snavely, head coach of the Cornell University football team, observes that American youth has softened up physically "through the modern tendency to use automobiles."

Sound logic, that, even though it may not add appreciably to the gridiron prowess of the Big Red eleven.

The average youngster never thinks of walking a few blocks. He insists on slouching into the family car for the shortest errand. The only hiking he ever does is that of standing on a corner and trying to thumb a ride from a stranger.

Coach Snavely is on the right track, but he doesn't go far enough. Modern youth should even be forced to forego bicycles. It would do the younger generation a great deal of good to be compelled to depend solely upon Nature's own means of locomotion. However, the shock of discovering his own legs might be too much for Junior.

AGENCIES NOT ABOVE THE COURTS

A Supreme Court decision this week, that has not attracted the attention its importance deserves, tightens the rein on independent—perhaps too independent—Federal agencies inclined to be a law unto themselves. It derives special significance from the fact that the opinion was written by Justice Frankfurter, a supporter of the New Deal and assuredly no particular friend of big business.

After denying a petition by a Pacific coast public utility for a merger, the Federal Power Commission contended that its decision was not subject to review by the courts because it was of a negative nature. It has hitherto been the rule that only affirmative orders, commanding that something be done, could be appealed from to the courts.

Justice Frankfurter brushes away the fine-spun distinction, holding that there is no real difference in their effects between affirmative and negative orders. Either may work injustice which it is the business of the courts to prevent or remove.

This is an application of sound common sense to interpretation of the law. It opens the way to judicial examination of all orders by executive and quasi-judicial bodies. In this connection it would be well for these agencies to remember that their independence is not absolute, and to recall Chief Justice Hughes' remark that if they are to serve the purposes for which they were created, they must "act in accordance with the basic concepts of fair play."

TIMES CHANGE IN UNITED STATES

Well, times do change. Tom Amlie, the Wisconsin radical, asked the President to withdraw his nomination as member of the Interstate Commerce Commission because it became apparent that he didn't have a Chinaman's chance for confirmation. The Reorganization bill was enacted in such form that the authors of the President's original proposal wouldn't have recognized it, and even Senator Byrd approved of it. The emergency relief appropriation bill was trimmed to $100,000,000 and the President's pleas to have the figure raised to $150,000,000 were in vain. Indeed it was reported that any reconsideration of the bill by Congress might result in further trimming rather than restoration to the higher figures.

Everyone who reads will remember how things were back in 1933 and 1934 when the President's measures were being enacted into law with a fervor that reminded one of the World War days. All the New Deal Congress could do was to sign on the dotted line and it assumed its subserviency to the White House willingly, even gladly. Anyone who had the temerity to disobey the unconstitutional NRA was to be cracked down, and even a humble pants presser was sent to jail.

What a difference a few years and one Congressional election can make! But such is life—especially political life. After having been apparently obliterated the Republican Party has come back with a snap and dash that a few short years ago would have been deemed improbable and well nigh impossible.

Of course conditions may change again within the next few months. But whatever happens it is not easy to erase from memory a fifty billion national debt—especially if one happens to be a taxpayer.

King Zog's crown goes to Victor Emmanuel but Zog isn't utterly bereft. He got away with $160,000.

There is a difference of 66 million bushels in the guesses of the experts on the Kansas wheat crop. Those missing the total more than ten million bushels should be disqualified.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

URGE WIDOW TO KEEP FAMILY

You may recall the column that contained a letter from a widowed mother of two children who had to work to support them in a children's home where she saw them only twice a week. She was puzzled to know if she should allow a well-to-do relative to adopt one of them.

I have a pile of letters of advice for that mother, chiefly from mothers who as children were cared for about as these children are, or who themselves are, at great sacrifice, holding their own families of little children together. Every one of these letters entreats the mother to keep her children.

To quote from just a few:

"I have made it known to all my friends and relatives that should something happen to my husband or myself to please keep the children together."

"Nothing But Tears"

"The relative has nothing but tears and heart crushes to offer. I wouldn't have a child go through them for all the wealth the relative could offer."

"Even if she had to keep them in poverty they would later respect and love her more than if she should separate them."

"My own father died when I was five months old. A wealthy family wanted to adopt me. Mother had seven children, two died. She was very poor but young...She refused adoption and I can say to that lovely mother...that I wouldn't trade an imprint made in the ground from her foot for all the Foster fortune. She managed somehow to send two of her children through college and two through business college."

"My eldest child was 14 when their father passed on. The youngest of my eight children was just two. Yet, we kept together, and although it was a struggle for all of us it is through hardship we become strong."

College Girl

A girl writes from college. "I was two when my father died. He left mother nothing but some furniture. My mother has worked as cook in a restaurant...Out of a job, she baked bread, rolls and pastry all day and peddled them from door to door in the evening. She is now sending me to college." We hope this girl makes some sacrifices, too.

"You have battled eight years, why give up now?"

From a college dean: "That mother has done exceptionally well. She has been courageous and can give her boy and girl no greater heritage than to keep them."

I like these statements. Don't you?

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

BOOKS NOW OPEN

Where conditions are genuinely changed, business is quick to adjust itself to the new requiremnts. Nothing signalizes the truth more aptly than its recent scrapping of the old policy of secrecy about its affairs. Ten to twenty years ago in many plants visitors were admitted only under special circumstances. Now the time of one or more persons in nearly every large factory is devoted to guiding visitors around. In those days sales figures were guarded as zealously as patent processes now are. It was frequently considered no business of employees to know what profits their company was making, or even how much business was being done.

Today the secretive complex is decidedly the exception in business. Employees have been elevated to a status formerly reserved to stockholders with influence. They are informed on matters long considered confidential.

In a recent issue of Nation's Business Herbert E. Fleming analyzes the financial reports for employees published last year by forty-two large corporations. These and many others go to much effort and expense to simplify their annual balance sheets and operating statements in order that the essential facts shall be clear to every worker, however humble. They are demonstrating in the most convincing way that management of industry has nothing to conceal, either from its employees or from the public. The old bugaboo, "It might get to our competitors," has lost its potency.

Just Folks

NEIGHBORS AND NATIONS

Neighbors who wish to get along
Talk more of right and less of wrong.
To them a fence is but the thing
To which the rambler roses cling
And over which "hellos" are said
And women pass their fresh baked bread.

Neighbors who wish at peace to dwell
Manage life's matters very well.
They share the labors and the cares
And all the large and small affairs.
Whene'er the tasks aside are laid
They visit, but they don't invade.

Neighbors who wish each other well
Need neither gun nor shot nor shell.
The border's just a line o'er which
May pass at will both poor and rich
And not a frowning barricade
Of hate and doubt and terror made.

They do not think and plot and plan
And scheme to kill their fellow-clan.
In terms of war they do not think
At last in war's foul swamp to sink.
Nations who would at peace remain
Find peace no trouble to maintain.

Old-Fashioned Aunt—Sally. I should think that a night club would be the last place a girl of your station would go.

Sally—Yes, it usually is.

Why does a head loaded with foolishness always leak at the mouth?—William H.

It looks as if this country has more to fear from strikes than from war. Too many people are effected by the striking of a small minority of the people. Seems to us striking men is one of the things that should receive some attention. It don't even do the strikers any good in the long run. It's a big loss to everybody very often.

Maybe the king and queen of England will visit this country if there is no war. At least he hasn't said anything about it yet.

SO SAY WE

A balloon never has trouble rising on hot air, but a man who depends on that to rise has a lot of trouble.

Customs change with costumes. In the Victorian period of flowing gowns, when a woman had an itch in the neighborhood of her knee, she had to suffer in agony or sneak into a dark, neighboring hallway for relief. Now she nonchalantly gives herself a finger-nail massage right out in the street and nobody so much as raises an eyebrow.

Whether one loses his money on preferred stock or on preferred blondes, doesn't matter. He is in the same predicament.

NO CHANCE

Flossie Fernfrill says that in the past some people thought that the powder the girl used was merely flour from the kitchen, colored from the rouge box.

There is no such danger, now that the girls seldom visit the kitchen, and when they do they can't find any flour there, adds Flossie.

Office Grouch asks this one: "What has become of the old fashioned banker who used to slap the promising young man on the back and say, "Your credit is all right with us."

Good Taste

By Francine Markel

A large proportion of my readers' inquiries reflect a general doubt as to how to properly introduce a stranger arriving in a roomful of guests. The proper method is for the host or hostess to take him around the room and introduce each guest in turn. But if it is a gathering so large as to make this process tiresome, it is perfectly permissible to stand at the door and make the general announcement: "Ladies and gentlemen—this is Paul Jones." Then each guest in due course should come to him and extending a cordial hand, state: "I am Tim Collins" or "My name is Daphne Defour."

WHAT KIND OF NEIGHBORS HAVE YOU?

The story is told of a restless pioneer traveling westward with his family in the early days of the settlement of western United States, who came to a village to stop for the night, perhaps to settle permanently.

"What kind of people are there here?" he inquired of one of the residents.

"Well, what kind of people were there in the town you came from?" the old settler inquired.

The traveler launched into a bitter description of his former neighbors who were, according to his story, highly undesirable.

"Well, that's just about the kind of folks you'll find here," the old settler said.

Sometime later another westbound pioneer came through the town, looking for a place to make his home.

He also inquired what kind of people there were in the town he came from.

"Why, they were the finest people, the best friends and neighbors, a man would want," said the traveler.

"Well," the old settler said, "that's just about the kind of folks you'll find around here."

Lecturing to an audience of London women on how to be a success in business, Dr. Jane Lorimer Hawthorne uttered a solemn warning: "The girl who wears a smart frock and up-to-date coat over shabby underwear will fail in anything she takes up in life."

The world war was fought for democracy. We didn't get much of it so far. The next war should be fought for something else.

A messenger entered the elevator and forgot to take off his hat. There was only one other passenger in the elevator, but she was a rather fussy, middle-aged woman, and she asked the messenger, "Don't you take off your hat to ladies?"

Miss Flossie Fernfrill and a young thing who loafs in Miss Flossie's beauty shoppe, are not speaking. Flossie broke her silence the other day when she heard the loafing girl say she was going to have her picture taken.

"I hope," said Flossie, "the photographer will do you justice, tempered with mercy."

Railroads In Favor Of Regulation Would Have All Carriers Included Committee Investigating Situation

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

Water carriers of interstate freight between this country's two oceans, the Canada line and the Rio Grande or the Gulf of Mexico are not one bit enthusiastic over the scheme to put regulation of all our forms of transportation under the jurisdiction of a single federal body—the Interstate Commerce Commission or some similar group, to be created in place of the commission. Neither do the auto-truck operators like the idea—not unless they're subsidiaries of some one of our big railroad systems. In fact, these independents are violently opposed to the whole notion. The railroads, however, warmly favor it. It looks good likewise to holders of railroad securities — notably our great insurance concerns. They're a potent influence, too, with rail investments running away up into the billions. And look at the number of their policy holders! Incidentally the general public is vitally concerned, since it ultimately pays the bill for freight carriage—passenger fares also. I don't think the general public understands the subject very well, though—it's extremely complicated.

Chairman Burton K. Wheeler's senate committee on interstate commerce, as we know, has been investigating the situation for some time. Of late it's been listening to expert witnesses. Said witnesses disagree vehemently—accordingly as they are, on the one hand railroad owners or creditors; on the other, water carriers or truckmen.

Back Into History

It requires a glance into rather ancient history to get the point of the controversy between them.

Back in an almost pre-historic era, when we had no railroads to speak of except part of the way westward across the continent, we did have a little inland transportation. Boats chug-chugged up and down the Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri rivers. I can remember when there was quite some shipping on the Big Muddy. Such streams weren't improved. Boats ran on bars, were torn by snags and had all kinds of trouble, but they did their darnedest.

Then the railroads broke in and knocked the props from under that primitive system. But the rails were frightfully greedy. They were efficient but they got themselves hated. They likewise enormously overdid their various capitalizations. Folks began saying, "We must re-develop our inland waterways, to counteract such brigandage." It was a slow job, but progress was made with it gradually. Channels were dredged out; river navigation began to be a serious railroad menace. Thus quite a crimp was thrown into the railroads.

Then the auto made its appearance. It wasn't a serious railroad worry at first, for there were no inter-city highways to mention, but now we have them everywhere. I don't know how much cheaper the auto is than the railroad for freight shipments, for I'm not a freight shipper, but I do know that it's about one-half cheaper (though not as comfortable) as rail passenger transportation. Another railroad crimp!

Railroads Mistreated?

Now, the railroads maintain that they've been mistreated.

They represent that they built their lines, which were vastly costly. The water carriers didn't build their waterways. Their waterways have been scopped out and developed, but essentially they were a gift of nature—not avenues that the public had to pay for.

As for automotive roads?—the public footed the bill—and the buses aren't entitled to use them "free gratis for nothing."

Nub: If the railroads want relief, they can't get it by a reduction in their own rates; they've got to get it by an increase in the rates of the water carriers, and the truckers' charges.

That's why they want a new interstate commerce commission.

As a consumer:

"Do you like the proposition?"

It'll help the railroads.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

NEW YORK—Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., envisions the future:

"It is logical to assume that we have only really begun to expand our industrial frontiers; we are only just beginning to discern some of the means and methods by which future progress can be made possible."

CHICAGO—Senator Gerald P. Nye sounds a warning against foreign war entanglements:

"We must protect our institutions in America but we must never ask our men to fight again on foreign soil unless we are certain of winning such a peace as we desired in the last war."

NEW YORK — William Allen White urges Americans not to trade freedom for "false security" of totalitarianism:

"In our United States today, with all our social, political and economic inequities, we still have a high living standard for more of our people than any other nation offers its citizens."

A Peace That Failed

WASHINGTON, April 21.

WHETHER the plea of the President to the European dictators to preserve peace is effective or not it appears pretty clear that his earlier plea to the labor dictators at home to make peace has failed. At least with what seems inadequate excuse, the peace negotiations were abruptly broken off some time ago and the two factions are as wide apart now as before they began.

RESUMPTION of the conferences apparently depends upon the will of the bellicose Mr. John L. Lewis, of the C. I. O. whose truculent tone almost from the start made hope of peace seem more or less ridiculous. As things stand today the bitterness between the leaders has not been diminished and no progress whatever toward harmony has been made. At the outset those closest in the situation felt that the most that could be expected from the peace negotiations was some sort of armed truce. Now they are not even hopeful of that.

THE reason given for indefinitely suspending negotiations was that hearings were to begin on the proposed amendments to the Wagner Labor Act. As the C. I. O. is against any changes at all, and the A. F. L. is insisting that amendments must be made, it is held that until that business is settled it is futile to talk about peace. Of course, if there was a real desire for peace there was no reason whatever the differences about the Wagner Act could not have been adjusted around the conference table. However, no effort was made to do that. Instead the hearings were made the excuse for leaving the table.

THUS, all that has happened is that in response to the plea of the President the battling labor leaders were compelled to go through the motions of a peace conference but without peace in their hearts. The net result has been nothing. They are still battling. It is of course, possible that public opinion or more Presidential pressure may compel Mr. Lewis later to take the initiative in renewing the negotiations, but this is by no means certain. As a matter of fact the hearings now in progress are calculated to widen the rift and enhance the bitterness.

PARTICULARLY is this true if by procrastination and delay the C. I. O. succeeds in stringing things out so that action on the proposed amendments cannot be had before the end of this session of the Congress. Suspicion that that is the game being played has been voiced more than once. No action at all would suit the purposes of the C. I. O., and in that the National Labor Board and the President would be glad to acquiesce. The NLRB, it has been charged is, in effect a creature of the C. I. O. and the President has not yet taken a stand on any issue in opposition to the C. I. O. With Mr. Roosevelt and the C. I. O. for more than three years now, it has been a case of mutual support.

ALL of which leaves the A. F. L. in a painful position. In the first place its leaders discovered that the peace negotiations were being used by the C. I. O. as an excuse to avert consideration of the amendments. Now they find that the amendments are being used to discontinue peace negotiations. In the end they seem likely to find that both the peace negotiations and the amendments have failed. Certainly, the amendments suggested by Senator Wagner and the NLRB do not meet the needs of the situation from any standpoint except that of the C. I. O., and the Administration. So far as the A. F. L. is concerned the board would still seem a C. I. O. dominated agency from which justice could not be expected.

SO far as the business interest of the country are concerned the whole thing grows worse, not better. The Wagner Act as administered by the NLRB is generally obnoxious to business men and is regarded as one of the greatest handicaps to a healthful recovery. Even if the A. F. L. amendments should receive favorable consideration, which does not now appear likely, there seems slight chance for those proposed by Senator Burke and the business organizations, and which are so urgently needed to correct the one-sided nature of the act.

THERE is a striking contrast in this matter between the attitude of the NLRB and that of Mr. Elmer Andrews, administrator of the Wage and Hour law. The former seems implacably hostile to any proposal from employers for modifications which would make the law easier and more satisfactory. Their real position is that it should not be touched. Mr. Andrews, however, himself, has come forward, pointed out flaws in the Wage and Hour law, and personally offered amendments designed to remove the well-founded objections of the employers. The net result will be that the Wage and Hour law will gain in favor while the sentiment against the Wager Act is bound to become more bitter and, in the end, overwhelming.

Convention Is Well Attended

Over 300 Women Attend Presbyterial Meeting On Thursday In Third Church

MRS. C. G. JOHNSTON IS NEW PRESIDENT

Registration yesterday at the 62nd annual convention of the Woman's Missionary society, Beaver Valley Presbytery, was 323, the largest recorded at a spring convention of the body in some years.

Both morning and afternoon sessions were conducted in the Third United Presbyterian church of New Castle, with the retiring president, Mrs. W. F. Rotzler of Beaver, in charge. The following new officers and departmental secretaries were elected to serve during the next twelve months:

Officers Named

President—Mrs. C. Garman Johnston, New Brighton.

First vice president—Mrs. Chester T. R. Yeates, New Castle.

Second vice president—Mrs. Parker Smith, Aliquippa.

Recording secretary—Mrs. Joseph B. Young, Ellwood City.

Corresponding secretary—Mrs. B. R. Bruce, Rochester.

Assoc. secretary—Mrs. J. F. Smith, College Hill.

Treasurer—Miss Luella McKee, Beaver.

Departmental secretaries—Thank offering, Mrs. Anna Davidson, Enon Valley; literature, Mrs. H. C. Perrott, Beaver Falls; temperance and reform, Mrs. Hugh Snodgrass, Conway; junior, Mrs. J. C. Doutt, Beaver; statistical and efficiency, Mrs. J. C. Rose, New Castle; and prayer group, Mrs. John Caughey, Wurtemburg.

India Missionary Speaks

Miss Margaret Murdoch, missionary to the Punjab, India, was the main speaker of the day. Another much enjoyed part of the program was a missionary play given by a group from the hostess church. When contributions toward purchase of an X-ray machine for the Sailkot hospital, India, were asked, the women generously gave a sum of approximately $280 in cash.

Twenty-four congregations were represented at the convention. Except that of the hostess church, the delegation from Beaver Falls was the largest, with Ellwood City as chief "runner-upper."

The welcome was given by Mrs. Chester T. R. Yeates, wife of the Third church pastor. Mrs. C. A. Forsythe of Rocky Springs led a praise service; Mrs. J. E. Caughey of Wurtemburg led an "Information Please" session; and Mrs. Charles Gilmore of College Hill gave the noontide prayer. The ladies brought their own lunches. Coffee was served. In the afternoon Mrs. Joseph Young of Ellwood City conducted a memorial service; Mrs. G. E. T. Gray of Beaver spoke on "Our Association Work"; Mrs. Ed. O'Neil sang, accompanied by Miss Kathryn Newberry; Mrs. Paul Chapin of Oak Grove offered prayer and Rev. Yeates gave the benediction.

RICH ENDOWMENT

(International News Service)

OREGON CITY, Ore.—The one-room Sandy Ridge grade school will receive an endowment of $18,000 by terms of the will of John Strauss, pioneer bachelor-farmer who died at the age of 86. The rural school is situated in a sparse district and has never had more than 24 children at one time. The school board is puzzled as to just how to use the money.

COAST GUARDSMAN SAVED MANY LIVES

(International News Service)

CHICAGO—Capt. J. O. Anderson of the Old Chicago Coast Guard station is going to retire.

This news brings into the spotlight the fact that Capt. Anderson has saved more than 4,700 lives during his 39 years as a U. S. coast guardsman on the Great Lakes.

A couple of gold medals which he can't put his hands on at the moment because "they're put away in a cigar box someplace," testify to his most thrilling rescue.

TRY SQUEEZING IT!

Well, it generally is assumed that almost everyone is familiar with one of this state's fruits, but Lois Tomer of Hanford, Cal., a member of the Hanford high school foreign correspondence club, found it necessary to reform a correspondent in England just what an orange is and what is generally done with it.

BEEN YEARS SINCE THIS LADY ENJOYED HER MEALS SO MUCH

Niles, Ohio, resident asserts she can eat anything now without a sign of distress from indigestion, gas, bloated feeling, and other troubles since Vendol relieved constitpation.

MRS. AGNES MITTENDORF

Here is interesting news—good news, for every person in this city who suffers from indigestion, gas in the stomach, lump in throat, acid risings, cramps and other symptoms when caused by constipation. Read what a reliable person living right near this city says Vendol did to relieve these troubles, then if you suffer the same way, do as she did; that is, take Vendol and enjoy the same grand relief.

Mrs. Agnes Mittendorf of 146 Halford St., Niles, Ohio, whose husband works for the Republic Steel Co., in conversation with the Vendol Man now at Eckerd's Cut Rate Drug, said: "It's a grand feeling to eat what you want and know you won't pay for it by suffering later. For a time I was actually afraid to eat what I wanted. Seemed most everything turned against me and caused cramps, gas, bloated feeling, belching up particles of food, and felt like I had a lump in my throat that I couldn't get rid of.

"The quantities of gas would crowd my heart, causing heartburn, and extra exertion made my breath very short. I often had nervous headaches, and if I stooped over felt like all the blood rushed to my head and dark spots would cloud my vision. I was tired all the time, and just hated to get up in the mornings. I ached all over, and had a heavy coating on my tongue, offensive breath, and bad taste in my mouth.

"I know now that all these troubles were due to constipation because after I had been taking Vendol a short while it relieved my constipation like nothing else I had tried ever did, then all these other troubles just faded out. I feel better than I have for the last four years, have more energy and pep, actually feel like a new person."

You will never know what Vendol can do for you till you give it a trial. So, come to Eckerd's Cut Rate Drug, and let the Vendol Man explain all about this great Root, Herb and Alkaline medicine. Try it, see for yourself how much better it will make you feel. You can get Vendol at leading drug stores everywhere.

Erie County Children Want Father Pardoned; Has Served 12 Years For Wife's Death

PLEA OPPOSED BY DISTRICT ATTORNEY

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 21—The state pardon board today considered a tearful plea from the children of Frank Wojnarowski that their father be freed after serving almost 12 years in the Western state penitentiary for his wife's murder.

Mrs. Stella Jasinski, his daughter and John Adam Wojnarowski, his son, said their father was not "in his right mind" when he killed their mother.

"This is his last chance, I believe" pleaded Mrs. Jasinski. "Don't turn him down. If you won't let him out, then please deport him to Poland. He will pay his own expenses. But don't turn him down entirely.'

Commutation Opposed

Mortimer Graham, Erie county district attorney, opposed the plea on the grounds that the man was homicidally dangerous due to his tendency to drink too heavily. Graham said he did not think Wojnarowski was legally deportable.

The two children said a friend would assure their father work on a farm and young Wojnarowski said he would look after him.

Graham pointed out that Wojnarowski was accused of homicide in 1915 at which time he was permitted to return to Europe where he joined the Russian army and fought in the World War.

"Because of his potential danger to society, I am forced to oppose communtation" said Graham.

Wojnarowski was sentenced to life imprisonment in September 1927. Five previous pleas for commutation have been refused.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

PARENTS SHOULD SET TIME FOR INOCULATION WHEN BABY IS BORN.

I believe sincerely that every baby should be toxoided. To prove I mean this, let me tell you that we toxoided the Dionne Quintuplets. They didn't seem to mind it, either.

We gave them a small injection, waited three weeks, gave them another and then three weeks later gave them their third injection. Not only did we give them injections, but we had pictures taken of the operation. These pictures showed the babies looking rather reproachfully at us as we used the needles on them. We had no bad reactions from these injections. In fact, the children weren't upset in the least. Believe me, if I hadn't been convinced that these injections were necessary as well as quite safe, they never would have been given to those five babies.

Toxoiding is best done during the child's first year of life, for several reasons. I've often told you before in these columns that a baby inherits a certain tendency to immunity to disease from his mother. That inherited immunity lasts for about six months or a year. So, before the end of his first year, he should be toxoided in order that he will be protected when his inherited immunity wears off completely.

If adults were toxoided, there would be a small percentage who would have very sore arms for a few days. Some of us might even run a fever. But with young babies and children under the age of five, this isn't true. They don't get any swelling or soreness at all at the spot where the injection was given. Neither do they have any general reaction to the inoculation.

So I say this to you parents: when your baby is born, it is wise to set a time at which you will have him toxoided. This time is most satisfactory with normal children about the age of six months, I think.

This stamping out diphtheria has been a great boon to the medical profession, particularly the country doctor. For years I have gone into a home and had the unmistakable smell of diphtheria hit me as soon as I opened the sickroom door. I will always remember how my heart would sink when I got this odor. When you're out in the country, you haven't any laboratory handy to examine smears of the throat to see if the patient really has diphtheria, so you have to develop other ways of finding out.

In past years when I found a case that even looked like diphtheria, I immediately filled that child with antitoxin. If I waited for a laboratory report to come in, then it might be too late and anyway, the only other thing it could be would be a bad case of tonsilitis. I found the injections helped this, too. Certainly, they didn't do it any harm.

In most cities, this toxoiding service is supplied free by the health department. You don't know what grief and suffering you may be saving yourself and your children.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

No one lends his ear, so protect your own.

There are two kinds of earache—otodynia and otalgia.

Otodynia is an earache in the ear itself.

Otodynia may be caused by inflammation of the skin.

Or streptococcal infection, ulceration or injury.

Otalgia is an earache caused in a distant part.

Otalgia may come from the teeth, tongue, tonsils.

Or palate, pharynx, larynx or epiglottis.

Fifteen million Americans suffer deafness to some degree.

Deafness is progressive, usually, coming on gradually.

Earache indicates something wrong in or about the ear.

An earache should be diagnosed and treated promptly.

Has Pictures Of All Of Greatest Things In World

Niagara Falls Photographer Compiles Collection Of "Largest In World" Pictures

(International News Service)

LONDON—Henry F. Schmul, Niagara Falls photographer, claims to have the greatest collection of pictures of everthing "largest in the world" of anyone living.

Racing around 32 countries in five months, he has taken 4,300 pictures. His ticket is booked already for a 39,000 mile world trip next winter.

When interviewed by International News Service he was taking a picture of the offices of a London newspaper which claims to have the world's largest circulation.

In Scotland, he says, he photographed the liner Queen Elizabeth at Clydebank, "the largest ship in the world," came south and pictured Liverpool Cathedral the largest red sandstone church in the world."

. Snapped Milan Cathedral .

In Milan he snapped the cathedral, "the largest marble structure in the world." He found that the Ac de Triomphe in Paris was "the highest memorial arch in the world."

Asked what he had photographed in America which was the largest in the world, he said the Bobbie Burns Memorial at Barre, Vermont, was "largest memorial to any poet." It is built of Rock of Ages granite from the "deepest granite quarry in the world."

At Alton, Illinois, he photographed 19-year-old John Wadlow, who stands 8 feet 8 inches, and according to Schmul, is "the tallest man in the world." At Tampa, Florida, he found Dot Pincento who, he says, is "the biggest woman in the world."

Schmul is a walking guide-book and quotes facts and figures on all superlatives without a moment's hesitation. He says after next winter's trip he will have taken pictures in all the 198 countries of the world—believe it or not.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life.

Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

(Material Gathered and Edited by Student Reporters)

SENATUS ROMANUS

The regular meeting of Senatus Romanus was held Tuesday, April 18th, in the basement hall with Consul Primus Helene Edgar presiding. Devotions were conducted by Esther Schaller, after which roll call was answered by each member giving a Roman proper name and the minutes of the last meeting were read by Scribe Helen McCommon.

Consul Primus then appointed two committees, the first to be composed of Ed. Fortney, Jane Walls, Leo Cohen, and Barbara Matthews to make the necessary arrangements for a party in honor of new members and the second to consist of Irwin Master, Caroyln Cosel, James Hares, and Jane Morris to plan a program for the night of Open House for parents which occurs Friday, May 12th.

In conclusion slides were presented by Richard Hite of the electricity squad showing the derivation of interesting English words. These were explained by Nancy McKee, Jane Morris, Mary Margaret Flynn, Helen McCommon, James Hares, Hazel Ann Mark, Irwin Master, Harold Adams, Anna Abraham, Constance Watt and the comments of Miss Van Divort, club supervisor.

RIFLE MEET

Thursday evening at seven o'clock the Boy's and Girl's Rifle Club held their long-debated rifle meet. The contest was supervised by Mr. John McKenzie, with Bill Houck as technical advisor. At the close of the evening, the girls were proclaimed to be the winners.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The weekly meeting of the Student Council was opened by President Jack Matthews in the teacher's lunch room on Wednesday morning. The minutes were approved as read by Jean Dufford, the secretary. At this point in the meeting, reports were given by the various committees for the Spring dance. Special reports were given by Thomas E. Clark and Joseph S. Johnston of the orchestra committee. A suggestion was given by Virginia Frederick to send invitations to the session rooms for the dance.

President Jack Matthews announced the following committee to take care of giving out the basketball awards in an assembly in the near future: DeEtta Cartwright, Tom Clark, Audrey Bridenbaugh, and Bill Trent.

DOFOBS

The regular meeting of the DOFOBS was opened by President Pat Blaine in the library Tuesday morning. The minutes were read by the Secretary Carol Henderson. At this point, the two latest additions to the club were introduced by the president. The new members were Mary Elizabeth Allen and George McKinney. Birthday greetings were then extended to Tom Clark who is the treasurer of the club.

The remainder of the meeting was spent in a contest of looking up reference work. Each member was given a slip of paper on which a question was found. Upon finding the answer to the question and the source of the answer, each member was given another question. The person with the most questions answered was declared to be the winner. Prizes are to be given to the boy and girl receiving the highest score. As the meeting was cut short, the winners will be announced next week.

GIFTS FROM JUNE CLASS, 1937

There are in the library two very well known works of art on display. These were purchased from a fund left by the June graduating class of 1937 which was supervised by Donald Copson. The one is a plaster cast reproduction of Nike—known as the Victory of Samothrace (commonly called the Winged Victory) and the other a cast of the Discobolus of Myron or the Discus Thower.

The original of the Discus Thrower is found in the Palazzo Lancelotti Museum of Rome. It represents a young man, who is bending with a vigorous gesture to hurl the discus. His body is thrown violently towards the left, by a twisting action which calls every muscle into play. The whole torso seems full of life and expression.

The Victory is in possession of the Louvre, Paris. It was carved to commemorate a naval victory of the Grecians over the Egyptians. The irresistible energy, the victorious swing of the body, the quivering life that seems to animate the marble, the happy contrast afforded by the flutter of the wind-swept mantle and the adherence of the closely-fitting tunic to the torso, combine to make the statue the most exquisite expression of movement left to us by antique art. The sculptor has not only translated muscular strength and triumphant grace into marble, he has suggested the intensity of the sea breeze.

Babson Says New Deal Can Be Counted Out In Campaign Of 1940

By ROGER L. BABSON
(Copyright, 1939, Publishers Financial Bureau)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—Two recent trends have helped President Roosevelt politically. These are: One, the fear of a war involving Great Britain and France; and two, the possibility that the Republicans may be unable to get together on a strong candidate. A war in Europe would put F. D. R. in line for another four-year term, if he wishes it. Without a war, and with a strong G. O. P. candidate, he is licked. Remember, business conditions make politics; politics do not make business conditions.

BABSON

Business conditions are fairly good today as far as retail trade and other statistical indicators are concerned. Measured by the number of people out of work, however, conditions are not much better than when Franklin Roosevelt took office six years ago. Millions of Americans voted for Roosevelt in 1932 because they believed a change in administration would solve unemployment. Millions more voted for him in 1936 because more people had jobs than in 1932. Since then unemployment has become bad again. What the voters did last fall is a preview of what will happen in 1940 unless jobs greatly increase.

Democrats Badly Split

Will a possible business boom and a big gain in employment help President Roosevelt if he runs in 1940? The answer is: "Yes, but it will not heal the split in the Democratic party." The New Dealers and the "Old Line" Democrats are at swords' points. The gap between them is far wider than the average voter realizes. It looks now as though Mr. Garner and Mr. Farley will determine the Democratic candidate. In addition to Mr. Garner and Mr. Farley the leading non-Roosevelt possibilities are Hull and Clark. New Dealers such as Wallace, Hopkins, Jackson and McNutt today stand no chance of being elected. The New Deal can now be counted out.

If President Roosevelt should run as a third party candidate, he would automatically elect a Republican. Furthermore, any other Democratic standard-bearer than Mr. Roosevelt would find the going pretty rough. Voters know that the Democrats promised recovery during the 1932 house-cleaning and that they claimed credit for it in the 1936 tidal wave. They also know that millions of people are still out of jobs in spite of the fantastic sums of money which have been spent to eliminate unemployment. The Law of Action and Reaction is today working against the Democrats as it worked against the Republicans in 1932.

Third Term Obstacles

Recent polls show that President Roosevelt still is personally popular with 58 per cent of the voters. Why, then, could he not win? Answer: Because there is a deep-seated tradition against three terms. More significant than the polls of his popularity is the fact that other polls show that only about half of those who approve of Mr. Roosevelt would support him for a third term! With the hamstringing the G. O. P. will give him in Congress for the next 18 months, with millions still out of work regardless of how much of a business upswing we may have, with no chance for economy or a balanced budget, the present outlook is that President Roosevelt could not win a third term.

The above, of course, is all "ex-war." A big European war is F. D. R.'s real opportunity to come back for another four years. It brought Woodrow Wilson back in 1916; and it saved Lincoln in 1864. "Don't change horses in the middle of the stream" is a powerful political slogan. A European war in 1940, with us involved, could bring Mr. Roosevelt back for four years. A war which even threatened to involve us would make him a heavy favorite. Actually, a European war right now would help the president far more than a roaring business boom. Perhaps this explains much of the war propaganda in the United States today!

Taft And Dewey Lead

Now, who looms up as the Republican standard-bearer in November, 1940? The wise boys here in Washington are focussing on four men—Dewey, Taft, Vandenberg and Bricker. Taft and Dewey now seem to be well in the lead. They are two brilliant, sound, progressive men—not the Old Guard type which has ruled Republican politics in the past. Vandenberg would be an excellent choice; but he lacks the pulling power of either of the younger men. You can forget Landon and Hoover. Both are very able men, but both unfortunately would be flops as vote-getters.

From what I have gathered here this week, the current session of Congress is a hopeless mess. There is no leadership. New laws will be relatively unimportant—and from all appearance there will be few of them. The railroads may be thrown a few crumbs. The Wagner Labor Act may come in for a few minor changes. A new Neutrality Act, however, should be drafted. Business need not fear that there will be any more reform legislation. Reform days are over until the next depression!

Forget Politics And Europe

My real message, as I leave Washington, is for business men now to forget the political picture. Those who are frightened about "another four years of Roosevelt" are worrying unnecessarily. If we have him, we will also have a war! And a war might be just what the doctor ordered for American business. We would take over world trade, world manufacturing, world financing. Our huge surpluses of wheat, cotton, metals would be used up. Millions of dollars in gold bullion, shipped to this country and Canada in the last six months from France and England, would provide the buying power. Forget politics and forget Europe. We have seen the worst of both for the time being!

Worst Period For State Floods Past Records Indicate

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 21.—Although high waters have been reported this month in various portions of the state, a survey of flood records for the past 250 years seemed to indicate today that the worst flood period of the year was past.

With two exceptions, the Ohio river and the main branch of the Susquehanna river, floods in April and May have been infrequent in Pennsylvania during the past two and one-half centuries and the same holds true for the remainder of the year.

State flood experts were quick to point out, however, that while past records seem to indicate the worst flood period is past, there have been notable exceptions and there was no guarantee that 1939 would not be one of them. At the same time, they added, there was nothing at present to indicate this, barring always the unpredictability of the weather.

Leyshon Tells Of Work In India

David Rees, Spurgeon D., and Arthur J. Rees of East Wasington street have returned from Sharon, where they visited the latter's cousin, John and Mrs. Leyshon.

Mr. Leyshon is a former resident of this city and was employed in the Shenango hot mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Leyshon have just returned from India, where Mr. Leyshon was manager of a tin plant, about 150 miles from Calcutta, owned by Scottish capitalists, for 16½ years, and has now retired.

Mr. Leyshon was postmaster at Farrell for four year, later was hot mill superintendent at Gary, Ind., from where he went to India. When he arrived the plant was completed, but surrounded by jungle, frequented by tigers, hyenas adn other wild beasts and reptiles. These had to be eliminated, he had houses built for the workmen, 60 of whom he secured in South Wales. Now a good sized town surrounds the plant, with churches of various religions and creeds, all built by the company, under the supervision of Mr. Leyshon, who managed the city, as weil as the plant, and the arrangement went along quite amicably.

Defer Re-alinement Until June Meeting

Action on a proposed re-alinement of some churches in the United Presbyterian Mercer Presbytery will likely take place at the next meeting of the body, Tuesday, June 13, in Mercer. The matter was discussed last week at the spring session in East Brook. This re-alinement would affect the Harbor and Shenango churches which have been a joint charge.

Rev. Matthew Gilliland of New Bedford is the new moderator of Mercer Presbytery, succeeding Rev. T. L. Patton, of Lebanon, and Rev. Robert E. Douglass of East Brook is vice moderator Mercer Presbytery is on record as favoring the overture from General Assembly which would set a compulsory pension plan in the denomination, but the overture recommending a change in the method of calling pastors was tabled at the East Brook meeting

Send Hand-Written Notes Over Wires

Tele-photo Process Enables Sending Of Original Messages

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA.—Philadelphians soon may be able to send hand-written messages by telegraph through the recently-developed "slot-machine" dispatcher, says F. R. Veale, Western Union supervisor here.

It's all very simple, according to Veale. You write a message, drop it in a streamlined "mail box contrivance"—and then pay the attendant.

Actual working of the machine, explained Veale, is along the lines of "telephotos" sent by newspapers. It takes two minutes for a regulation-size blank to be transmitted.

The original is scanned by an "electric eye" which generates impulses received in the central telegraph office on special paper. The paper changes color to bring out the writing as the electric stylus passes over it, the supervisor continued.

Veale predicted that general use of the machine would lower telegraph rates, increase business and aid unemployment. First "slot-machine" boxes will be placed in corridors of large buildings, he believes.

Russia Starts Canal Bigger Than Panama

Political Prisoners Will Do Bulk Of Work On Huge Project

WILL CONNECT DON AND VOLGA

(International News Service)

WARSAW, Poland—Soviet Russia is building a new canal which is to surpass by far the Panama and Suez canals, according to reports from Moscow.

More than 60,000 political prisoners together with over 2,700 skilled workers will be employed in this work. Concentration camps to house the prisoners are at present under construction.

The new canal is to connect the rivers Don and Volga. The plan in itself is an old idea and its outcarrying was scheduled to take place in the 18th century but always postponed Now, however, since the biggest Soviet war industries have been shifted from Leningrad to the Ural and Volga territories, the construction of a Don-Volga canal has become an absolute necessity.

Dimensions Of Dam

The project provides for the establishment of an approximately 110 feet high and 36 feet long coffer-dam at Komowskoje on the Don river. Thereby an artificial lake with a quantity of water of 448 billion cubic feet is created, which is to shorten the distance between the two rivers considerably so that the actual length of the canal will amount merely to 25 miles. The new waterway is to serve the purpose of shipping goods from harbors on the Black, Kaspic and Aasov seas via the Volga to the harbor of Moscow and from there on to the north of the Soviet Union.

According to estimates of Soviet engineers approximately 20 million tons of cargo; coal, wood, metals and oil are to be transported annually on this waterway. This figure is to be considerably higher than those of both the Suez and the Panama canals during the first periods of their operation.

The expenditures of this project are estimated at about 5 billion rubles. The work is to be concluded within five years.

At the same time large electrical works are to be built in Donsk and Krasnoarmiejsk, 30 feet deep under the surface to protect them against possible air raids.

Work Is Started On Superhighway

Heavy Construction Is Well Under Way On Pennsylvania Turnpike

HARRISBURG—Heavy construction is underway along nearly one-fourth of the 160-mile Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Seven major contracts totaling $2,577,348.56 and covering 35.4 miles of roadway have been awarded, and are in operation at scattered points along the line.

More than 600 workmen manning and supplementing modern machinery are excavating cuts, dumping fills and building bridges on these projects.

Contractors on the job have earned from the Turnpike Commission approximately $375,000 for work accomplished to date. Further payments will be made as work progresses.

Three other grading and drainage contracts totaling $1,569,518.02 and covering an additional 15.9 miles of line have been formally awarded, and will get underway immediately.

Bids have been received on three other projects, including two tunnels, which will total $4,565,657.98, and will cover 7.32 miles.

Five additional sections of the road covering 16.83 miles have been advertised for bids, and will be let this month. These include tunnel, grading and drainage jobs.

Plans for many more sections are nearing completion in the Turnpike Commission's engineering offices, and will be released for bids in the near future.

GULL MASCOT DIES

(International News Service)

EVERETT, Wash.—Conspicuous by his absence is Gus, the seagull, who died after serving as the city's unofficial mascot for nearly ten years.

Gus chose a niche of the city hall roof as his permanent home. He would majestically pace to and fro throughout the day looking for his favorites who daily offered him sweets and bits of food.

Camera Enthusiasts Learn Print Results

Club activities were discussed this week by members of the New Castle Camera club. Chief among them was a recent letter from the American Photography magazine recently.

Several weeks ago winners in the monthly print competition were sent to this magazine for criticism. This letter criticized the prints and made suggestions as to how they could be improved. The only print which received truly favorable criticism was Janice Bittner's "Symphony of Bridges."

The club received a letter from B. H. Chatto of the Photographic Society of America, one of the judges at their November Photography Salon, telling of an exhibit at the New York World's Fair to which the society has been asked to send forty-eight prints. The members of the club were invited to submit prints to be judged for this exhibit.

Three members voted into the club were Miss Esther Nowalk, Miss Myrtle Keene, and Mrs. Charles Young.

The subject for the next monthly print competition will be "Harbinger of Spring." The next meeting will be May 3. The next print competition will be on May 17.

There's Extra good news in this price tag

The model illustrated is the Buick SPECIAL *model 41 four-door touring sedan $996 delivered at Flint, Mich.

$894 AND UP delivered at Flint, Mich.

Prices subject to change without notice. Transportation, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories — extra.*

THERE are a lot of things about this Buick any wide-awake-to-value buyer ought to know, but one specially important point is this: Many an item you'll pay extra for elsewhere is included in Buick's eye-opening prices!

No other car, for instance, gives you the Flash-Way direction signal for signaling turns by a mere touch of a switch.

Few have locks on both front doors—or a light in the luggage compartment—or automatic electric lighters in the dash—or ash receivers as numerous and as handy.

And where else may you have your choice of wide running boards or narrow—or get a gas-saving economy gear just for the asking?

No other car, of course, gives you the extra silkiness of the Dynaflash valve-in-head straight-eight engine—none has quite the comfort of the BuiCoil "full float" ride.

Naturally, it's the smart white-tie look of this Buick, its agile stepping and wide-paned outlook that are causing most of the talk.

But look into the good news about "extras"—and you'd spot this honey as the car and the value of the year even without its beauty and its brilliance!

So why not ask your dealer now to quote current prices? They're lower than a year ago, lower than you'd expect, lower even than on some sixes!

Paul Wins Recognition For Gentile Christians

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

"A man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ."—Galatians 2:16.

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 23 is Acts 15:1-35; Galatians 2:1-10, the Golden Text being Galatians 2:16, "A man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ."

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

It is an odd thing, but people, even the best of them, and those banded together by the finest of bonds, cannot always agree. And so it was in the early days of the Christian church, when men were so eager to tell people the beautiful story of the Savior and his life, death and resurrection, that they disagreed on some matters.

And one thing they argued about was whether Gentiles, when converted and baptized, should be made to become Jews by observing all the old Mosaic laws and customs. Now, you remember that Peter, Paul and Barnabas had had experiences that made them feel that God meant the gospel to be preached both to Jew and Gentile alike, and they felt very strongly on the point.

On the other hand, the Pharisees and those like them were just as sure that only by becoming Jews in all but name could the Gentiles be admitted to the church.

Paul and Barnabas had a good deal of discussion with the other members of the church over this matter, and the others finally decided that these two should go to Jerusalem and ask the apostles and elders about it. So to Jerusalem they went, and after they had been received at the church and had told all the things that "God had done with them," certain Pharisees rose and expressed their conviction that Christians must be as Jews, and there was a great deal of discussion and disagreement.

Then Peter rose and told of his experience with the Centurion, Cornelius, and about his vision of the food let down from heaven and God's voice telling him he must not call unclean that which God had sanctified.

"And God, which knoweth their (the Gentiles') hearts," Peter said, "bare them witness, giving them the Holy Ghost, even as He did unto us; and put no difference between us and them, purifying their hearts by faith."

After that the multitude was silent and listened to Paul and Barnabas, who declared what miracles and wonders God had wrought among the Gentiles.

Then James, the brother of Jesus, rose and talked. He had great influence among the Christians, as you may well imagine. He said it was his judgment that the Gentiles need not keep all the laws of the Jews, but that if they refrained from eating meat that was customarily offered to idols, from blood and from anything that had been strangled, that would be all that was necessary. Paul willingly agreed to this, and so the matter was settled. Letters were written to the Gentile Christians at Antioch, Syria and Cilicia telling them the verdict.

So Paul and Barnabas went back to Antioch well pleased. Judas and Silas were sent to tell the Gentile brethren the same things by word of mouth.

Paul showed his wisdom in accepting the decision of the leader of the church in Jerusalem. He was a strong man, firm in his convictions and ready to fight or suffer for them, or he would not have turned from persecution of Christians to working with and leading them. He was a natural leader, and it could not have been easy for him to have given up his own way, but when it meant a slight sacrifice for the good of all, he was willing to compromise, just as we all must do when insistence means a fight which can leave only hatred and bitter feelings.

To show his firm stand on the matter of Gentiles being allowed to become Christians without also being forced to obey the Mosaic law in its entirety, Paul says in his letter to the Galatians, in chapter 2, "Then 14 years after I went up again to Jerusalem and took Titus with me."

Now Titus was a Greek, and so was one of the Gentiles whose case was in dispute. Titus, to Paul, was living proof that God would accept Gentiles into His service, just as they were.

Chaperau Protests Five-Year Sentence

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 21.—Albert N. Chaperau, convicted smuggler, protested in Federal court Thursday that he had pleaded guilty to crimes he never committed.

Vehemently declaring he had been "ill-advised," the dapper international adventurer served formal notice on the U. S. attorney's office that he would seek a revision of the five-year prison sentence and $5,000 fine imposed on him last week.

Most important link of the smuggling chain in which Mrs. Elma N. Lauer, wife of Supreme Court Justice Lauer, Jack Benny and George Burns, radio comics, were involved, Chaperau branded his sentence "cruel and unjust."

James Ready To Sign Bill For City Managers

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 21—Governor Arthur H. James promised Thursday to sign pending bills permitting Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and 45 third class cities to decide on city manager government, in the event the legislature approves them.

Admittedly puzzled over the proportional representation plan of electing councilmen, as provided for in the Philadelphia charter plan, Governor James stated:

"I see no reason why these communities shouldn't have the opportunity of voting for whatever form of government they want, I would sign the bills into law, if passed by the legislature."

The bills are now held by senate and house committees.

What's The Use Being Midgets

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 21—Midgets may be pint-sized humans, but to Uncle Sam's unsentimental immigration inspectors they are no different than anyone else.

As a result, 65 midgets imported by Morris Gest, theatrical producer, for a World's Fair show, were stranded on Ellis Island Thursday until they produce $500 bond each as required by immigration laws.

Ellis Island authorities refused to accept pint-sized bonds jestingly offered for the under-sized humans.

Harold Lloyd May Not Appear In Next Picture

By MILTON HARKER
(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, April 21.—Harold Lloyd, who has appeared in 500 pictures in 25 years, expects to produce a picture in which he doesn't appear.

The coming week may bring the announcement Lloyd has signed a one-picture deal with RKO. The final terms are being worked out now.

It has long been Lloyd's ambition to make a picture as a producer instead of as actor. He realized, his friends say, he can not stay on the screen as a comedian indefinitely—he started in 1913 with the old Edison Company in San Diego. If he establishes himself as a successful producer, his future in the industry is guaranteed automatically. Lloyd loves the movie business and wants to be part of it, in one capacity or another, as long as he lives.

Signing of the deal with RKO doesn't mean Lloyd is retiring as an actor. It does mean, however, he'll appear less and less. His last picture, "Professor Beware," was made a year ago.

As might be expected, Lloyd's first picture, if the deal goes through, will be either a comedy or a comedy drama. Lloyd's new adventure may mean the revival, with another actor in the lead, of some of his famous old successes, "Grandma's Boy," "The Freshman" and "Sailor Made Man." "The Freshman," as example, made in 1925, was one of the most successful pictures in screen history, grossing $3,500,000. Lloyd owns all the rights of all these old pictures which lifted him to brilliant stardom and a fortune.

Jonathan Hale, we just find out, owns Hollywood's most unusual pet. He's a mocking bird named "Timmy". Timmy came into the Hale household two years ago when a cat knocked a nest out of the tree in the back yard. Hale reached the bird before the cat.

Hale fed Timmy with a medicine dropper and when he had grown big enough put him outside to give him his freedom. But Timmy wouldn't go away. He just sat on a windowsill and waited to be taken back inside the house.

So Hale bought a big cage and Timmy became a real pet. He's a friendly bird, too. He'll greet four out of five people who come in by sitting on their shoulder. The fifth he won't like and won't have anything to do with.

Timmie had a habit when he became restless, of tearing up paper on the floor of his cage. So Hale bought a little bell and hung it in the cage to amuse him.

Now, Hale informs this skeptical reporter, Timmy rings the bell madly about a quarter of nine every morning, meaning he wants the black night cover taken off his cage. Then he starts ringing it off and on from 6 p. m. to 9 p. m., meaning he wants the cage covered so he can sleep. If he isn't covered by nine, Timmy'll keep ringing the bell steadily until he is bedded down.

This cooling and soothing preparation quickly relieves the itching, eases pain and irritation and aids in healing the raw, sore spots. It seems the height of folly for any one to suffer this itching annoyance when a simple remedy, so easy to use, may be had at such a small cost. Ice Mint is highly recommended and is clean and pleasant to use. Try it. Any drug store can supply you.

Mexican-Italian Barter Deal Made

The oil shipments will begin June 1 at the rate of 30,000 tons per month.

The first Italo-Mexican barter arrangement, concluded several months ago, specified $3,000,000 worth of oil in exchange for tankers which are now being constructed in Italy.

Western Allegheny May Operate Several Months

Although the Interstate Commerce Commission, had issued orders that the main line of the Western Allegheny Railroad Company, between the Bessemer and Lake Erie at Queens Junction, and the Baltimore and Ohio R. R. at West Pittsburg, to be abandoned May 10, it is probable that the road will be operated several months longer.

On account of the building of the new three lane highway between Portersville and Route 19 and 422 intersection, material for which are being shipped via the Western Allegheny Railroad, it is reported that the operation of the railroad between Queens Junction and West Pittsburg, will continue until the end of that project.

The railroad headquarters are at Kaylor and the road was formerly owned by the North Penn Coal Company, and sold to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company about 1925, but the road was operated independently.

About twenty years ago, there was located on this piece of track, about twenty coal mines, most of which were in Butler County, that made large shipments of coal. None of these mines is now in operation. In 1917, the road was loading 40 to 50 cars of coal, and 80 to 100 cars of limestone per day. In the same year, two passenger trains, each way, plied daily between New Castle and Kaylor.

At the present time, locally, the Western Allegheny Railroad handles shipments to several gasoline companies, and a few coal yards, in East New Castle, and shipments from Rose Point Stone and Lime Company.

R. S. Keep, of East Washington street, is the agent at East New Castle.

FIERY ITCHING SKIN GETS QUICK RELIEF

Home Treatment Eases Unbearable Soreness—Distress

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to ease the itching and torture of Eczema, Itching Toes or Feet Rashes and many other externally caused skin eruptions and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning and people who suffer from such embarrassing or unsightly skin troubles would be wise to try it.

Just ask any first-class druggist for an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil and refuse to accept anything else. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that a small bottle lasts a long time and furthermore if this clean, powerful, penetrating oil that helps promote healing fails to give you full and complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded. Sharp Reduction In Motor Police Force Is Likely

Seek To Slash Approximately $1,500,000 From Appropriation For Revenue Bureau

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 21—A sharp reduction in state motor police personnel today was believed "highly likely" by administration leaders seeking to effect economies in line with Gov. Arthur H. James' economy program.

While the governor recommended continuation of the $9,070,000 appropriation for the 1939-41 biennium, he proposed to slash approximately $1,500,000 from the revenue department, which operates the accident prevention bureau jointly with the police.

Cuts May Come

Rep. William H. Habbyshaw, Dauphin Republican, said the department depended upon what the house appropriations committee saw fit to give, and added that if the $1,500,000 reduction became necessary the motor police would have to be "cut somewhere."

Col. C. M. Wilhelm, acting motor police commissioner withheld judgment until the appropriation was approved.

By an act of the 1937 legislature the state police and the highway patrol were merged and personnel increased by 500 men to a total of 1600, to give the Keystone state the largest state police force in the nation.

Three hundred patrol cars were added to the force and more than $500,000 appropriated for a special highway accident prevention campaign which reduced the accident rate in Pennsylvania from one of the highest to the lowest in the country.

Submarine Net Being Stretched At Halifax, N. S.

Seek To Protect Halifax Harbor As Reports Of Submarine Are Heard

EVERY PRECAUTION IS BEING TAKEN

(International News Service)

HALIFAX, N. S., April 21.—While a $185,000 submarine net was reported in official circles being stretched across the entrance to Halifax Harbor, two mine sweepers and planes of the Royal Canadian navy and the mounted police were scouring the seas today for a mysterious underseas boat reported sighted along the Nova Scotia coast.

The submarine net, reportedly being stretched by the Royal Canadian navy from Purcell's Cove to McNab's Island, would halt any submarine attempting to enter the important Canadian harbor, according to navy officials.

As the Mine Sweepers Fundy and Gaspe headed out to sea, the Destroyers Skeena and Saguenay were provisioned and refueled for similar duty.

Precautions Taken

At least four reports of the submarine's presence in Canadian waters have been received. The crew of a freighter reported sighting the craft off the Cape Breton coast. Similar reports were received from the western shore near Lockport. The crew of the Steamer Cornerbrook also made a report. The fourth report was received from the captain of a pilot boat off Chebucto Island.

Defense Minister Ian Mackenzie told the house of commons the best opinion of naval officials was that the vessel in question was not a submarine but that all necessary precautions were nevertheless being taken.

One office that is crowded at the present time but will have ample space when the Boyles home is remodeled is the permanent registration office. Plans have been drawn by Architect Harry M. Wirsing which include a horseshoe shaped counter. This will care for anything except an unprecedented rush to register which probably will not happen.

It seems you can make money sometimes, staying in jail. Some time ago a man was jailed for numbers writing, the sentence being three months in the county jail with a parole in thirty if he paid $300 and costs.

Somebody furnished the $300 and costs but after considering the idea, the lad decided to stay the other sixty days and keep the money. Not counting his room and board he made about $165 per month.

GROVE CITY PLANS WAR ON MOSQUITOES

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, April 21.—A campaign to eradicate mosquitoes in and around Grove City, started last summer by a committee of the Woman's Civic Club, will be prosecuted vigorously this year, it is reported by the chairman, Mrs. A. J. Calderwood.

The park committee of council will be asked to take steps to abate the nuisance in Memorial Park, and residents will be urged to eliminate standing water around homes. It is expected that a survey will be made of the breeding places, and information disseminated about corrective measures.

WILDLIFE CENTER

(International News Service)

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—Salt Lake City is becoming a center of wildlife these days. Police had received numerous complaints that deer had come down from the nearby mountain slopes and were trampling lawns.

Then to make the story of wildlife even wilder, D. L. Nye excitedly reported he not only saw a herd of deer grazing less than a mile from the state capitol but could scarcely believe his eyes when two mountain lions attacked members of the herd.

Let's see; the last Revolutionary War pension was paid in 1906; a War of 1812 pension is being paid still. At that rate, we'll finish World War pensions in the year 2068.

Slayer Facing Death Monday In Electric Chair

Ernest Hipple, "Hill-Billy" Slayer Turned Down By State Pardon Board

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 21.—Execution of Ernest Hipple, Sullivan county "hill-billy" slayer, today was scheduled to take place Monday after the state board of pardons refused a clemency application on the basis of personal investigation of Hipple's sanity made by Lt. Gov. Samuel S. Lewis, a board member, disguised as a prisoner.

Lewis revealed he had made a personal visit to the Sullivan county jail where Hipple is being held and said he couldn't tell which one Hipple was".

"I casually engaged him in conversation," Lewis declared, "and found him as intelligent as any of the other prisoners."

Hipple's attorney, former State Sen. Charles E. Mills, Sayre, asserted that the young mountaineer was a "moron" and that "three well-known physicians pronounced him a moron with a mental age of 12 years."

Lewis said that Hipple had "told someone at the Sullivan county jail that he acted dumb when the physicians came to see him."

Unless Gov. Arthur H. James intervenes again in the case, the condemned man is scheduled to die in the electric chair at Rockview early Monday. Governor James stayed the execution slated for March 27 to permit reargument of Hipple's case after Hipple's attorney asked for the respite hoping to uncover "additional testimony".

According to Jack Brettell, city street commissioner, who will be in charge of the work, he will start on the ball field within a few days, just as soon as the ground at the proposed site dries sufficiently.

Phone Company Replaces Poles

$40,000 Construction Project For District Announced Today By Caldwell

WORK WILL START HERE IMMEDIATELY

Plans for an extensive telephone line construction project involving the replacement of nearly 1,200 Bell Company poles in the New Castle, West Middlesex, Beaver Falls, Coraopolis, Ambridge and Grove City exchange areas were announced today by Virdyn R. Caldwell, district manager. The work in New Castle and vicinity will start shortly.

The poles designated for replacement are nearing the end of their service life, Mr. Caldwell said. He explained that plant improvements of this nature are based upon complete inspection of telephone facilities conducted at regular intervals by Bell engineers as a part of the company's overall program to safeguard the service.

Construction work will be under the direction of Charles W. King, district construction foreman. The entire project will involve an expenditure of more than $40,000.

BARMAIDS WANT RAISE

Barmaids of Capetown, South Africa, are demanding $30 a week wage so as to be on equal terms with bartenders. Barmaids were abolished by the city in 1928, but those who had been employed for 12 months were allowed to continue. There are only 40 left, and all 40 want more pay.

Flower Garlands Are Latest Rage Of Parisian Girls

PARIS.—Here you are girls—the latest thing in evening wear directly from Paris.

Not gowns, ladies, but garlands are the latest rage of the fashion capital of the world.

Garlands of flowers, feathers or shells for evening or, if one is courageous, for afternoon wear. Little mother-of-pearl shells are worked into flowers, set among longer shells glided to form leaves, and then hung around the neck.

They may also be worn in the hair, when a Mother-of-pearl comb is attached to hold the garland in place. Uncurled ostrich feathers were used in one of the recent designs spotted in a better Parisian cafe.

Whenever possible add flavoring extracts to food when it is cool. If the food is hot, much of the flavoring will vanish in steam. This does not apply to baked foods, however.

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Roosevelt, in a special message Thursday, asked congress to amend a law to remove all reserve officers on duty with the Civilian Conservation Corps from the benefit provisions of a rider to the recently enacted national defense act. The rider provides that reserve officers and men, after 30 days of active duty, are entitled to the same disability compensation and retirement pays as regulars.

"In making this recommendation," the president wrote, "I am influenced by the belief that the congress in enacting the law had in mind its application to individuals serving an extended active duty with the army under conditions where they are exposed to military hazards of the same nature and to the same degree as individuals of the regular army.

Military Service

"While it is held that duty with the CCC is military service, nevertheless, application of the law to the reserve officers on such duty is considered never desirable nor necessary; as a matter of fact, as we all know, duty with the Civilian Conservation Corps is in no way comparable with active military duty—in fact, it is almost wholly civilian duty.

"Legislative action in accordance with my recommendation is considered preferable to the alternative of replacement of reserve officers by civilians, and I therefore recommend the matter to the favorable consideration of the congress."

Approximately 4,000 reserve officers are now holding CCC posts. At the same time he signed the national defense act, the president issued a statement condemning the practice of attaching extraneous riders to important legislation.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Canada's 15,000 Doukhobors, one of the strangest religious sects under the sun, moon and stars, are anxiously awaiting their new leader, Peter Verigen, 111, who is somewhere in Russia. The new chief of the "Spirit wrestlers" is the grandson of Peter Verigen 1, and the dynasty remains unbroken.

In the meantime, a grandson of Peter Verigen 11, John Verigen, acts as chief of this 200-year old Russian sect which, just 40 years ago this year, was colonized in Assiniboia and Saskatchefan, and, through thrift and hard work, has built a property in farms, canneries and textiles valued at $25,000,000.

They have been good citizens on the whole, yet troublesome because of their resort to nudity and frequent clashes with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. They kept the mounted police on the run, routing nude parades of bewhiskered farmers and their families, when the "mounties" should have been out "getting their man" in the established Oliver Curwood tradition.

"Very few clothes and a very red nose—that's all right in the summer time." So ran the old London music hall song, but the Doukhoborns did a Sally Rand right out on the Canadian snows parading in the nude on the slightest provocation—through a blizzard, if they felt like it.

No one ever got it quite straight, as to the reason for all this, but it seems to have been partly a phase of their religious relief and partly a means of sabotaging tax collector. When their colony was established in 1899, they insisted they would pay no taxes for war. They also said they would school their own young, and they objected to school taxes.

Taxes and clothes, two considerable items of latter-day overhead, caused most of the trouble. Two rich farmers, reaching a wrong destination on the railroad, undressed in a crowded station as a gesture of protest. Nudity became a fighting weapon as well as a ritual.

Canada brought it all on herself, inviting the Doukhobors to come on over, dealing them 450,000 acres of good land. Tolstoi helped finance the trip with the returns from his "Resurrection." The Quakers helped, too. They were model citizens, barring their odd ideas about clothes, or the lack of them. They were marvelous farmers, working from dawn to dark. They had no objection to automobiles, tractors or binders.

Modern industrial progress was all right if it wouldn't insist upon clothes. But it did, and friction with the authorities has been frequent. Three years ago, they negotiated with Mexico, but were barred out. Big, shaggy old Peter Verigen 1, leading their hegira from Russia, was their king.

He was a benevolent but firm monarch, a shrewd businessman, building their industries and farms into a prosperous little empire, dealing shrewdly with the outside world. But, about 15 years ago, there was mounting discord and trouble. The Canadian government jerked back 360,000 of the fertile acres it had given them. Orchards and farms had been developed but the government insisted that the colonists had violated their corporate charter.

In 1924, old King Peter was mysteriously blown up and Pete 11, with a big walrus moustache, like his dad's, ruled in his stead. He, too, was a two-fisted monarch, but more and more in trouble with the police as his people continued to flaunt their nudity before the John Laws.

Two years ago, deportation proceedings against King Peter 11 started him back to Russia where, his followers insisted, he would have been executed, as a hang-over from Czarist days.

But, by this time, sons of unclad Doukhobors had grown into big-time lawyers, with $60 suits, and they managed to flag King Peter at Halifax, procuring a court ruling against his deportation. He was in jail for a while, but released in February 1933.

The Doukhobors are of ancient Tartar stock, starting as a mystic religious cult early in the eighteenth century. In their early days, they were driven off their lands, into the Caucasus, and then hounded around Asia and finally to islands of the Mediterranean—not so much on account of their peculiarities about clothes but on account of unorthodox ideas of God. But, through all this persecution, their band was strangely persistent.

There are about 15,000 of them in Canada now. They were and are ascetics, forbidding musical instruments, cards, dominoes and games of all kinds. Everybody must be in bed at nine o'clock and up at 5 o'clock in the morning. Marriage is a simple business of selecting a mate, with no ceremony, but with the strictest monogamy thereafter.

This nudity business is no modern fad. It's very old—back to Queen Elizabeth's day. In 1795 Lord Monbaddo of England recruited quite a following and carried through a long encounter with the police which his lordship apparently enjoyed greatly. Set upon by the authorities for strolling around in the raw, he made a spirited philosophical counter-attack, tracing most of the ills of humanity to clothes. Finally he announced he would compromise. He would meet a public committee partially dressed, and he did appear garbed in a coat of olive oil.

There are probably half a million nudists in Germany. In Soviet Russia they wear them or not, as they please, in the country and at beaches. In this country there are nudist movements in seventeen States. French police are kept on the jump by a nudist island in the Seine.

Man is a strange creature. Missionaries have a dreadful time getting primitive people to wear clothes. But once man is clothed somebody has to call the police to keep him so. A queer animal, man.

One speculates sometimes how far he has actually progressed from the ape. And to mind leaps instantly the old rhyme:

"A man sat on a rock and sought refreshments from his thumb;
A dinotherium wandered by
And scared him some.
His name was Smith. The kind of rocks He sat upon was shale.
One feature quite distinguished him
He had a tail.
Nature abhors imperfect work
And on it lays her ban;
And all creation must despise
A tailless man.

Hank Greenberg Hits Homer For Detroit Victory

Big Hank Smacks One In 14th Frame; Yankees Trim Red Sox 2-0

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 21.—Boston's Red Sox and Detroit's Tigers may be greatly improved ball clubs this season. But it also may be said without fear of successful contradiction that New York Yankees are by no means ready for an invalid's chair.

It needed only one game for the Yanks to convince Joe Cronin that The Yanks are the same old wrecking crew and today the Boston pilot is wondering if any club can even come close to them.

Yanks Win

The Yanks had their inaugural yesterday and they started right in where they left off in the world series last fall by trimming the Red Sox, 2-0. And they used the same old recipe to turn the trick—superlative pitching, sensational fielding and plenty of power.

The world's champions made only seven hits off the rejuvenated Lefty Grove whose arm seems to have recovered its old skill if not its old power, but one of those seven hits was a homer by Bill Dickey and the other was a triple by Jake Powell following an error by Jimmy Foxx and away went the ball game.

Red Ruffing, one of the American league's two 20-game winners of last season, also gave seven hits but there were no homers or triples among them.

Tigers Trip Sox

Out in Detroit the Tigers amassed 19 hits off a quartet of pitchers but had to go 14 innings before getting an 8-7 decision over the White Sox. Hank Greenberg's first homer of the season broke up the ball game and gave him a flying start on his drive to bust Babe Ruth's home run record.

And down in Philadelphia old Connie Mack trotted out his ace, George Caster, to pitch a four-hit, 2-0 victory over the surprised Senators.

The Indians were washed out at St. Louis as were the Reds at Chicago and the Cardinals at Pittsburgh.

Boston Bees Win

But the Bees, like the Yanks and Athletics, also had a 2-0 shutout up their sleeves and they unfurled it at the expense of the poor Phillies whom Lou Fette held to three scattered hits.

And there was great rejoicing in Brooklyn where the Dodgers hammered out a 5-3 decision over the Giants. Luke Hamlin held the Terrymen to seven hits, one of which was Mel Ott's first homer of the season, while the Dodgers were pounding Hal Schumacher and Bill Lohrman for nine solid smacks.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Bessemer has turned out fast baseball teams which during several years past have proved the class of the Lawrence county loop. For a time it appeared as though Bessemer would also break into the fight ranks. However, its representatives either said good-bye to the game or returned to the army. Frankie Rachig was the first to show his gloves. He milled several times in the bowl. Not so many months ago a chap named Clark, who was home from the army on a furlough, essayed a couple of trips into the Arena ring. He returned not long ago to his post.

One of the most popular of the local amateurs several years back was Eddie Owens. He was courageous from C to S. Yankee Pagley who now takes care of dolling up boxers with boxing gloves in the Arena was another favorite. His feud mostly was with Lew Tamber of Farrell. Ray Atkinson and Tony Adamo were favorites, five or more years back. Custy Morini, in a trial at a come-back almost a year ago boxed twice then apparently retired.

As recollections come we discover in a dusty desk drawer a lithograph of a Milwaukee boxing show in which Henry Firpo is slated to box Roy Williams, the Chicagoan. The other two bouts carded show Jack McVey, who also boxed here vs Frankie O'Brien and Frankie Battaglia vs Angel Chiville of Porto Rico. They were some of the middleweights who appeared in the middleweight title eliminations some years ago in the Milwaukee auditorium where probably a score of years ago the writer seconded Battling Terry when he fought Joe Welling, Chicago's bid for the lightweight championship.

Some of these lads were the best in their classes which brings to mind that in those days Ducky Guinagh was one of the best baseball catchers in this district. He handled the delivery of any pitcher who flung 'em across the plate. Fiz Rodenbaugh was more supple that he is now and alternated between the pitcher's mound and infield. Varley pitched some nice games for the Y against the Pennsylvania Engineering Works and just to give you a line on ex-Sheriff Bill Andrews, let us say he was a second baseman in those days. He is yet upon his toes to help baseball although he no longer is engaged actively.

A few days ago a report said the Louis-Roper scrap in California was the first since Johnson flattened Ketchell in 1909. They probably meant it was the first titular bout because we recall Tom McMahon having fought Sam Langford, Charlie Miller, Al Kaufman and others in the White Hope days. Johnson and Ketchell fought in Colma, October 16, 1909. It was whispered that the fight was to be merely an exhibition, but sad for Ketchell, it proved no exhibition, instead the real thing, as Ketchell himself wanted. The bout was booked for 15 rounds and went along nicely until the twelfth. Johnson fought defensively, flashing an occasional brilliance. In the twelfth, Ketchell executed the famous Ketchell shift and whipped a right to Johnson's cheek-bone. Down went Johnson. Up he got and as he came up he fired a straight right flush on Ketchell's mouth, knocking Stanley half way across the ring. Ketchell was out for 10 minutes. A legend persists that when they cut off Johnson's glove two of Ketchell's teeth were embedded in the leather.

Although weather and water conditions have not been very conductive for good piscatorial sport there is one gentleman, Jackson Center Taylor, who made one sterling catch, according to reports. One of the trout he caught with a fly, measured over a foot. It was caught in the Little Neshannock. In some ways, some folk appreciate the fact that conditions have not been right. They say this augurs well for a better season. In some past years most of the trout were fished out the first few days. This season, cool weather plus, muddy and high water has resulted in meagre catches. Some people report having caught the limit but most fishermen report catches of one and two.

There was in the city yesterday an old friend. Fred Hammerschmidt of Harlansburg. He has one of the nicest farms in that section. In his earlier day he was one of the strongest men in the county and yet retains plenty of the strength so vital to farm work. Fred can recall when it was no task nor cost of much time to journey to the Slippery Rock creek and return home with a catch, which if witnessed today, would cause eyes to bulge. Another who can tell of the days when the Slippery Rock abounded with fish, is J. Ed. Elder, the retired police officer. Everything from a bass to a muscalunge enjoyed life there in the days when he was a barefoot boy.

Helen Carlson is the star woman pitcher on the otherwise All-Male Mount Washington, N. H. baseball team . . . Tony Galento will include a series of exhibitions as part of his training for his bout with Joe Louis . . . As many as 20 horses may go to the post in the sixty-fifth running of the Kentucky Derby. For the next few years it will be Ralph Guldahl against the field in all the major golf tournaments, according to Innis Brown, an authority on golf . . . That long distance American league, Detroit-Chisox game was ended in the fourteenth when Hank Greenberg smashed out a homer to win for Detroit, 8-7. It was his first this season.

Altoona has lost the coach it has had for 13 years. He is Ed Emanuel who will coach at York. He will get $3,000, per season, $400 more than he was paid at Altoona. His teams won six Western conference titles and twice tied for the Central States championship. The Altoonians won 103 games, lost 27 and tied 12 times . . . The Dodgers has released the veteran catcher, Luke Sewell who may catch on with the Cards . . . Any blind man who wants to fish can do so without a license in Oregon . . . Alms easily won the Ft. Strenuous Days For Local Boxers

Must Undergo Rigorous Training To Survive Arena Punch Duels

BEST LOCAL BOYS MEET OHIO BOXERS

No athlete goes through more strenuous training than a fighter preparing for conflict and in the Jefferson A. C. gymnasium these days quite a number of amateurs in the punch business are getting ready for their three round bouts Monday night in The Arena.

Each morning they run and walk alternately for several miles following which they take a shower then rest until the afternoon. They shadow-box, skip rope, practice punching on big and small bags, pull weight machines, row and ride stationary rowboats and "bikes," wrestle then box several rounds.

After going through this grind daily they usually "knock off" heavy training which includes boxing, wrestling and handing hard punches on sand or saw-dust filled bags two days prior to a fight fearful of either incurring a laceration or injuring a hand.

During the last two days of a fight they shadow-box, skip rope, pull the weight machine, row and ride a "bike" and take walks to keep their muscles limber. Usually the fighters select roads for walks with dirt cartways, free of obstacles which might cause them to turn an ankle.

Rbin In Top Role

When the fans journey to The Arena, Monday night, they will see boxers in, what boxers term, the pink of condition. Sixteen will be paired in eight bouts, the feature event of which will be the Mickie Rubin, New Castle vs. Richard Main Youngstown, light-heavyweight battle.

The light-heavyweight division includes fighters weighing more than 160 and not more than 175 pounds. Usually they are faster than heavyweights. Most light-heavyweights who have fought here have been fairly good punchers. However, none proved a more lethal hitter than the local Rubin.

Moran Good Puncher

Although he weights only 126 pounds, Frankie Moran, is one of the sweetest punchers with either hand in amateur ranks. He has stopped opponents with lefts and also rights. He is matched to tackle Tommy Bell, a brother of Shelton Bell the light-heavyweight of Youngstown.

Charlie Arkett, another hard puncher, who lives in West Pittsburg, has a tough altercation in front of him. Andy Wertz, having been docketed against him. Wertz is reputedly the best lightweight in the amateur ranks of Youngstown. Arkett holds a similar record here.

County Title At Stake

When Buck Chambers of West Pittsburg tackles Billy Reale of Princeton, they will be boxing for the amateur middleweight title of Lawrence county. Chambers is not as polished as Reale because the farm-boy has had more experience than the lad from "Powertown."

Frankie Genaro, said to be the best welterweight of Youngstown, will give Joe Carter, also of that city, a return bout here. Genaro won the Golden glove title in a tourney recently, Carter was runner-up. This should prove a close fight throughout the three rounds.

Others On Calendar

Baby Retardo of Ellwood City, a flyweight, or 112-pounder, who has shown to advantage will meet Tony Kardio, Youngstown. Larry Regal, a novice of Butler, who worked like a veteran the last time he fought here will oppose Mike Kornesky, an invader from Youngstown.

Patsy Frazier of Youngstown hopes to pin back the ears of Patsy Frazier of Youngstown in one of the early bouts. Main, Genaro and Wertz, are the best at their weights in Youngstown, while Rubin, Arkett and Moran are the best in their divisions in Lawrence county.

Fans Volunteer Work On Field

Work Will Start Next Week On New Baseball Field At West Pittsburg

They have real honest to goodness baseball fans in the neighboring community of West Pittsburg, it was revealed today by Danny DeGenova, manager of the West Pittsburg team of the City Baseball league. The fans have volunteered to help the Taylor township supervisors with the work of grading and fixing up a new baseball field.

Work on the project will get under way at the first part of next week. The supervisors have volunteered a scraper and roller, and the fans will do their share. The "Gas House" gang will no doubt have a fine ball diamond when it is finished. According to Manager DeGenova there is a movement under way at the present time to obtain funds to build a backstop and a set of bleachers at the newly proposed field.

The new power plant of the Penn Power company is occupying the site of the ball diamond that has served West Pittsburg for many years. The West Pittsburg boys are going to try hard to make it three in a row in the City League.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

Local sports briefs—Fred Shaffer made his 1939 debut in the American Association, Wednesday afternoon. The local blonde athlete took over the Louisville pitching chore in the third frame when St. Paul solved the offerings of Wagner. Shaffer gave up five hits in four frames. The Saints won, 9-3, with Wagner being chalked up with the loss. . . . Two of Ellwood City's top ranking amateur swatsmiths are slated to appear in the Beaver Falls police benefit show, Friday, April 28, in Beaver Falls. In one of the settos, "Baby" Retardo, slugging 112 pounder, battles Wayne Dillon, pride of East Liverpool, O., and Elmer Cortez, the promising 126 pounder, swaps punches with Al Peterson, also of East Liverpool, O. Both Ellwood City mittmen will appear in New Castle's next fistic presentation Monday night.

Along baseball avenue . . . Tris Speaker, one of the greatest ball hawks of all time, says young Jim Bagby, Red Sox pitcher, has a better fast ball than his dad. The old grey eagle also hopes someone knocks down the Yankees. . . . It cost the major league teams something like 10,000 "bobs" for transportation during the spring training session. . . . Paul Derringer, Cincinnati's crack caster, is credited with four wild pitches in three years. . . . Major league pitchers are starting to believe that the annual all-star game is a jinx. At least five pitchers suffered injuries or went sour as a result of the classic. Van Lingle Mungo hurt his back; Schumacher tried to hurl with a one-day rest after winning seven in a row and hasn't been worth much since; "Dizzy" Dean busted a toe when a liner from Averill's bat clipped him. Allen and Vander Meer went sour after appearing in the clash. It is claimed that pitchers go into the game with little rest and hurl out of turn. Rather than disappoint fans, the major leaguers do their part.

Odds and ends in baseball—The 1926 world's series outdrew all other fall classics, attracting 328,051 persons. The series was a seven-game affair, however. . . . Hank Gowdy, Cincinnati coach, considers Joe DiMaggio the greatest player in the majors today. . . . Cleveland won 98 and lost 56 in 1920 for the Tribes' only major league pennant. . . . Mule Haas is back as manager of Oklahoma City of the Texas league, the same team with which he attracted attention as an outfielder before making the grade with the Athletics. . . . Jim Lynn, pitcher obtained by Detroit from Columbus, has played basketball, football, boxed and wrestled. . . . Sammy Baugh, Ed Goddard, Frank Filchock and Gaynell Tinsley, outstanding pro grid stars, are trying to break their way into big time baseball.

Sports omelet—Sammy Snead, the famous golfer, recently wagered that he could break 90 using only one club, the betting opponent to name the club. Snead played 18 holes with a sand wedge and came in with an 87! . . . Jack Dempsey started his boxing career in 1914. He was then known as "Kid Blackie" . . . Joe Louis didn't do anything unusual when he kayoed Jack Roper in the first. Jimmy Braddock pulled the same trick in '31 . . . Maximum salary in the National Hockey league is $7,000 a season.

John Susko New Grid Mentor At Union Township

Former Westminster College Captain Will Assume Duties In September

John Susko, a former Westminster star football player, has been named as grid coach of Union township high school.

Jay G. Rudolph, supervising principal of Union township schools, today made the formal announcement.

In 1937 Susko served as captain of the Titan eleven. After completing his collegiate football career, Susko assisted Grover Washabaugh, Westminster coach, during the last season. Susko, a Struthers, O., young man, assumes his duties in September, Rudolph announced. Wilbur Patterson, who has guided the gridiron destinies of the Scotland Lane school for the past few seasons, will devote his time to basketball.

Union's 1939 schedule is one of the stiffest in the history of the school. The lid lifter find the blue and white clad athletes facing Ellwood City high. Glassport, Grove City, Shenango, Bessemer, Mars and Zelienople complete the card.

Slovaks Bank On Janoski-Coates

The Slovak pitching staff this year will be headed by that veteran of many years on the local sandlots Paul Coates, a big right hander who even today can still burn them across the platter with plenty of zip, according to those who have watched him workout.

Manager "Snag" Russell and Johnny Seinker are banking heavily too on Theodore "Twee" Janoski, a big burly southpaw speed ball artist. The Slovaks will have a fine pitching staff with Coates, Janoski, Carik and Lenhart, the four starting heavers probably in the preceding order.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

A young fellow came in to our office about a year ago and how he damned this town and all its conservative ideas. According to this lad we were on the skids and there was no hope of ever getting off. We tried to reason with the boy but that, we saw, was useless after a few moments. He said as he left the room "I'm leaving and when I find a good place that is friendly and work is easy I will stop and make a few thousand" . . . well folks, that same young man returned the other day. And he didn't come in like a man and say why he had returned. We just happened to meet him on a side street . . . he looked bad, his eyes were tired and the smile was missing from his lips. His clothes were badly worn but he was still clean.

He tried to avoid our meeting but that we felt should never be . . . it was with great sorrow that we had him speak . . . he was hurt, down deep in his heart. After a few words he readily told his story . . . how he was a fool to ever leave his family and friends and how other places were so cold and unfriendly to strangers. He didn't know what to do now . . . he felt that he was a failure . . . but folks we can't believe that he is a failure, he just made a mistake and it wasn't too grave a one either. We retell this story for one reason, that you can go far and wide before another town like New Castle is found. There is no place like it.

A young lady who has been working out of town for a couple of years said the other day that she was sure tired of people being so cold . . . and might we add, this young lady has one of the brightest dispositions that we have found in many a day. Folks, New Castle is the place to live.

* * *

You will find in this place and that, a small group who think they constitute "Society" and their reason for thinking thusly is because they can spend a few more hours on the golf course than the average and their parties in the afternoon and evening are a little more daring. But we sort of disagree with them as we think real society is something that cannot be bought. It runs deeper than a golf game or a case of scotch. The Dictionary says that "society" means the betterment of a group with high ideals. Everyone can belong to such a group . . . our lives are just what we make them.

Stock Trading At Slow Pace

Price Movements Are Devoid Of Any Particular Significance Today

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 21.—Stock market dealings were at a virtual standstill today, with extremely modest gains in the majority.

Continuing the apathetic movements of the past few sessions, the market could show a first-hour turnover of only 90,000 shares, and trading in the next 60 minutes was at an even slower pace.

The market established forenoon highs at the opening, showing a slight recession in later transactions. However, the negligible changes in leaders and the limited volume of trading, robbed price movements of any particular significance.

Ellwood Rotary Sponsoring New Club At Wampum

Program Of Meeting Centers About Debate On "House To House Selling"

ELLWOOD CITY, April 21.—The debate of the month on "Ban House to House Selling" was turned into a discussion at the weekly dinner session of the Rotary club held last night in the First Presbyterian church.

Green River, Wyo., defines all house to house selling as a nuisance and as punishable and enforcing the ordinance had made the town famous far and wide. The discussion brought out both sides of the debate, yet seemed to favor the affirmatives.

Paul Winter had the large assignment of turning the Rotary magazine into an interesting address and more than met the assignment.

Lee McFate, New Castle, chairman of the convention committee for District 175, which will be held in the Cathedral on May 9, 10 and 11, was present and outlined convention plans.

Chairman Reynolds announced the organizational meeting of the new Rotary club in Wampum on Monday evening. The Ellwood club is sponsoring the Wampum unit.

Next week a Rotary Ann meeting is planned and it will be held on Tuesday instead of Thursday evening.

Seniors Present "Ceiling Zero"

Large Audience Witnesses Performance Of Airline Story By Large Cast

ELLWOOD CITY, April 21—Travel by plane and airmail is accepted today as the modern method of transportation but little thought is given to those that pioneered the way and last evening the large audience that witnessed the presentation of the Senior class play, "Ceiling Zero" in the Lincoln high school auditorium were given an intimate and realistic glimpse "behind the scenes" of modern as well as pioneer flying.

While it was an entirely different type of play than has ever been presented here, it evidently was well liked and appreciated judging by the tremendous and enthusiastic applause that followed the final curtain. Splendidly engineered sound effects had much to do with the fine success of the presentation.

The play revolves about the Federal airline offices in Newark, N. Y. whose company leads the flying world, and "three musketeer" pilots, Jake Lee, (Phil Weigel), superintendent; Tex Clark (Don Thompson) a pilot; and Dizzy Davis (Dick Newton) a daredevil pilot, whose arrival at the home field disrupts the entire office.

The play reaches a climax when Tex Clark pinch hitting for Dizzy Davis is unable to find the field because of fog and finally crashes. Despite blood transfusions from Davis, he dies and the "playboy" Davis is accused of murder by Tex's grief stricken wife (Esther Weir.)

Because of his recklessness Davis who had pioneered in every field of aviation, has his license taken from him by the government. Loyal to his friend, Jake Lee plans to trade an order of planes for the restoration of Dizzy's license. However, Dizzy takes matters in his own hands and disregarding orders to cancel the airmail flight on account of a storm, knocks out Tay Lawson (Paul Cunningham) who planned to make the trip to experiment with a new type of de-icer, and starts the flight himself. The new equipment wasn't satisfactory and as the plane crashes he radioes the results and offers suggestions for improvement and as the play ends is once again, but in death, the foremost pioneer in aviation.

Each of the three leading characters were especially well played and Dick Newton completely captivated the audience with his easy, finished performance. Roy Meehan was an efficient radio operator. Dick Markle and William Androlia as mechanics added comedy to the play in a capable manner. While he made only two appearances, John McCarron's portrayal of a pilot who had been badly injured in a crash and whose mind was affected by the accident high-lighted the entire performance.

Miss Shirley Price, an air-line hostess, provided the love interest dividing her affections between the assistant superintendent adaptly played by Paul Cunningham and Dizzy Davis.

There were a great many other characters in the play and while they played only minor roles, they all showed their ability in an unmistakable manner. The orchestra under the direction of Paul Winter, music director, played during the intermissions.

To Miss Elizabeth McKnight, the director, goes the honor of adding another star to her long list of successful plays.

The complete performance will be repeated tonight at 8:15 p. m.

Mellon Left Big Sum To Charity And Education

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 21—The late Andrew W. Mellon, Pittsburgh financier and former secretary of the treasury, left $24,807,191 in his charitable and educational trust an orphans court decree of distribution disclosed Thursday.

The entire amount was placed in the hands of the trust's three trustees—Paul Mellon, A. W.'s son; David K. E. Bruce, his son-in-law, and Donald D. Shepard, his attorney.

First disclosed along with Mr. Mellon's plan for a national gallery of art in Washington, D. C., during the government's $3,000,000 income tax and fraud penalty suit against Mellon four years ago, the trust was set up in the Mellon will.

Religion—Education—Charity

Irrevocable and self-perpetuating, the trusteeship may be reduced to one or increased to nine persons, at the discretion of the members. Its fund may be used in advancement of religion, education or charity, but may not go to:

Any member of the Mellon family or his heirs; any of the trustees or their successors; any shareholders, member or officer of any corporation under the trusteeship, or to any branch of state, federal or municipal government unless for "one or more exclusively public purposes."

Following the tax hearings, Mr. Mellon gave $10,000,000 for the Washington Art Gallery, which is now under construction.

WPA Dismissals Are Explained

More Than 1,045 Cut Off WPA Rolls For Violating Of Regulations

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 21—An investigation of WPA payrolls has disclosed 1,045 workers who were not entitled to WPA work and were consequently dismissed, the State WPA announced Thursday.

The number dismissed represented about one half of one per cent of the 234,771 workers on WPA rolls, acting state Administrator E. C. Smith, Jr. revealed.

Ineligibility was determined on the basis of one or more of the following reasons: other income from wages, property or investments; bank accounts exclusive of very small amounts; fraud in the establishment of eligibility; two workers in one family; minor (where the worker was under 18 years old.)

In cases where it was established that another person in a family was working in private industry, the WPA worker was not dismissed if the total income from the two wages did not exceed budget requirements of the state public assistance department.
